Communist Agitators Suspected In Harlem

NEW YORK (AP)—FBI agents Wednesday checked reports of Communist influences in the city's bloody racial rioting as Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr. prepared a public peace appeal to residents of the metropolis.

There also were reports that radical right-wing groups had a hand in the clashes between Negroes and police. The disturbances were touched off by the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old Negro boy by a white policeman. The officer said he fired in self-defense as the youth attacked him with a knife.

Wagner Peace Plea

FBI agents were looking into reports of Communist infiltration of Harlem and a predominantly Negro section of Brooklyn's Stuyvesant-Bedford section as Wagner met with city officials for a last-minute assessment of the situation for his citywide radio and television talk.

One man has been killed and hundreds injured since the disorders started Saturday night and continued sporadically.

See related Allen-Scott Report on Page 4.

Paul R. Screvane, City Council president who had acted as Wagner's replacement, says fringe groups, including Communists, have had a part in fomenting the disorders which flared most seriously Sunday night.

The New York Daily News said one high source disclosed that, "Both the Commies and the extreme Southern right wing have been supporting the Black Muslims because they are the most violent muscle unit."

The Communist party of New York State issued a statement calling Screvane's charges against Communists a "monstrous lie."

"Mr. Screvane's big lie is an incitement to a police force that cannot but reflect the racist policies of an administration callous of the Democratic demands of its Negro citizens," the statement said.

Some 50 paid Communist agitators are working in the heart of Harlem, the newspaper continued.

Both Communist and Negro hate groups were blamed by the Rev. Richard A. Hildebrand, branch president here for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Reds In Hate Groups

"The Communists have been concentrating on these hate groups and black nationalists because they think they are the wildest and most extreme and, through them, they can promote the most unrest."

Rioting spread Tuesday night from Harlem into Bedford-Stuyvesant where bands of teen-age Negroes stampeded through streets, smashing windows, looting stores and tossing objects and taunts at steel-helmeted police.

Between 45 and 50 persons were arrested and 350 windows were smashed by marauders. Damage was estimated at $350,000.

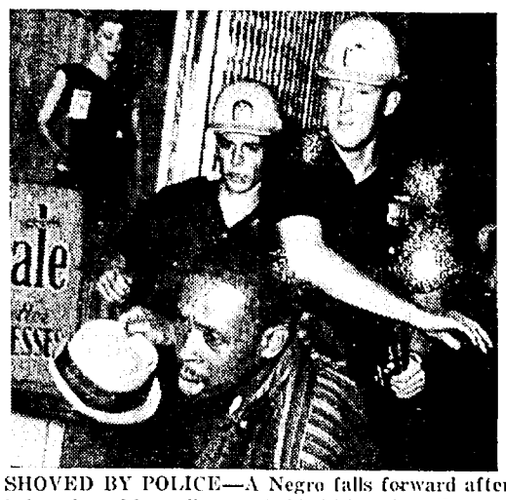
Police Brutality Charged

Many Negro groups and civil rights leaders have complained of police brutality by the hundreds of officers sent into Harlem and Brooklyn to restore order. Twenty-seven policemen have been injured.

NEW YORK (AP) — Racial violence erupted in scattered sections of New York City for the fifth straight night Wednesday, only hours after Mayor Robert F. Wagner appealed to the city's millions to "give me your hands" in ending the strife.

Shots were fired over the heads of milling crowds of Negroes in the riot-torn Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn.

In Manhattan, a jeering throng of 500 white teen-agers tossed eggs, stones and tin cans at about 200 Negro pickets outside police headquarters.



SHOVED BY POLICE—A Negro falls forward after being shoved by policeman behind him when the man refused to move from scene of a disturbance in New York's Harlem district. Police removed the man from the area in a patrol car after he challenged them to force him to leave the scene.

Wagner Pleads For Law, Order

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner, pledging that riots will be halted and the guilty punished, laid down a nine-point program Wednesday night which he hopes will end racial violence in New York City.

"Law and order are the Negro's best friend — make no mistake about that," the Democratic mayor said in a speech carried locally by three major television network stations and several radio stations.

Will Prevent Brutality

The mayor, who cut short a European vacation to return to the riot-torn city, coupled his pledge of swift law enforcement with a promise to prevent and punish any police brutality.

He announced he has broadened Deputy Mayor Edward F. Cavanagh's power to review any new charges of police brutality.

Wagner, speaking after four days of racial violence in Harlem and in a predominantly Negro section of Brooklyn, said: "Let me state in very plain language that illegal acts in direct defiance of authorities and the police whose mission it is to enforce law and order will not be tolerated by me at any time."

Law and order "are the Negro's best freedom," he said, adding: "The opposite of law and order is mob rule, the way of the Ku Klux Kian and the lynch mob."

Blames Hoodlums

He made numerous references to "hoodlums—rowdies and troublemakers"— in placing much of the blame for the riots. Several times he directed his remarks directly at minority groups living in poverty areas.

He promised that he would do all in his power to aid their educational, housing and employment problems.

Court Finds Rights Law Constitutional

ATLANTA (AP)—Three federal judges ruled Wednesday that the new Civil Rights Act is constitutional under the powers of Congress to regulate commerce.

In the first two court tests of the law, the court rejected attacks on the legislation's legality and issued injunctions against the Pickrick Restaurant and the Heart of Atlanta Motel Corp.

Effective date of the injunctions was delayed until Aug. 11 to allow time for appeals directly to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lester Maddox, who chased three Negroes from his restaurant at gunpoint July 3, said: "We'll wait until Aug. 11 and see what happens then." Earlier, he said he would not integrate and indicated he might close down instead.

Will Obey Order

Motel owner Moreton Rolleston, an attorney, said he would abide by the order but would appeal immediately.

Rolleston filed suit against the government to block enforcement of the law within two hours after it was signed July 2 by President Johnson. Maddox was sued by the three Negroes, later joined by the government.

In the Maddox case, the court said its decision must necessarily apply only to the restaurant and "to such other places of public accommodations that are sufficiently similar in circumstances as to require the application of the same legal principles to them."

The decisions were handed down by Chief Judge Elbert P. Tuttle of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and District Judges Frank A. Hooper and Lewis R. Morgan.

Interstate Commerce

The court cited Supreme Court decisions in labor cases and other ruling on interstate commerce in support of its finding that the Pickrick affects commerce by its purchase of goods moved interstate.

Dr. Sheppard Free On Bail

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard gained more days of freedom Wednesday as his 10-year-old murder case headed into a new legal maze.

Sheppard, convicted of second-degree murder in the July 4, 1954, bludgeon slaying of his pregnant wife Marilyn, was permitted to stay free on $10,000 bond.

A three-judge panel of the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals held that Sheppard could continue his freedom until an order granting his release from Ohio Penitentiary last week can be argued on its merits.

Presiding Judge Paul C. Weick of Akron said the case would be heard at an early date.

Johnson Poverty Program Starts Battle In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's antipoverty program sprouted an amendment Wednesday that may win Southern support for the measure.

And by late afternoon, the Senate agreed to limit debate on the bill itself to four hours, and to hold debate on each amendment to one hour, reinforcing hopes of Senate leaders for passage Thursday.

State Veto

The amendment would allow a governor of a state to veto federal plans to locate a youth camp in his state.

Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., floor manager of the bill, said he would accept the amendment with "some reluctance." It was offered by Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and passed by voice vote.

The compromise and debate-limiting agreements came after a prime Republican Foe of the measure had labeled one provision "a little bit stupid."

Tower Attack

That opening attack came from Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., who had joined Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater in voting against the bill in committee.

Goldwater, the Arizona senator now called a major voice in Republican Senate policy, was not present Wednesday. His office said he was not expected to take the floor until Thursday.

A key feature of the bill is authority to establish a job corps to provide education, work experience and vocational training for young men and women, age 16 to 21, in conservation camps and residential centers. An enrollment of 40,000 the first year and 100,000 the next year is anticipated by backers. The first year cost of this part of the program is estimated at $190 million.

No Politics

Also approved by voice vote was an amendment by Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., barring inquiry about the political affiliation or beliefs of any applicants for enrollment in the job corps.

Tower pointed to one provision of the bill that would provide a youth job corps for youngsters who local school authorities say cannot be practically helped in regular school programs.

'A Bit Stupid'

"If they're untrainable (in school) what on earth is the federal government going to do with them?" Tower asked.

"It seems to me to be a little bit stupid," the Texan said.

Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., chairman of a labor subcommittee on poverty, in opening the floor debate said the war on poverty program would help permanently stamp out breeding places of want.

The bill—which is perhaps the major remaining item in the President's program still waiting congressional action—would provide:

—Some $412 million to set up programs for unemployed youths—from a job corps that would provide work experience and training at conservation camps and training centers to college and high school programs of part-time jobs and combined work and education.

—Some $340 million to pay up to 90 per cent of community programs in a variety of areas from health to job training and rehabilitation.

—Some $50 million in grants and loans for low-income rural families to finance nonfarm enterprises, help for housing, education and other help for migrant farm workers.

—Some $150 million to encourage work experience programs by the states aimed at unemployed fathers and others in need.

Wirtz Wants Free Education For Youth

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Wednesday that every youth in the nation should be given "all the education free, which he needs and can use."

He proposed vastly expanded education as vital to preventing massive unemployment in the nation's increasingly technological economy.

"Our principle ought to be that in one way or another, every single boy and girl stay in school until that boy or girl is ready—until he or she is equipped with the skills which are required for the jobs in today's automated economy," Wirtz said.

This would include both college and vocational schools, Wirtz said in an interview taped for Washington's educational television station WETA.

Wirtz said his greatest disappointment in his two years as labor secretary has been "the difficulty of getting across to the country what's happening as far as the uneducated younger worker is concerned.'

He said some 35 million youngsters will enter the labor force in the next 10 years and that, if present trends continue, more than eight million will be high school dropouts.

"That'll be economic suicide," Wirtz said.

Human Slag Heap

"As nearly as I can figure things out right now, our situation is that we are stacking up about a quarter of a million young boys and girls every year on what can only be called a human slag heap."

"They're coming out of high school without the training for the jobs which are available," he said.

Sabotage Teams Train For Battle

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — South Vietnamese air force planes are dropping sabotage teams over Communist North Viet Nam and are training to extend their combat operations, the air force commander said today.

Air Commodore Nguyen Cao Ky told reporters at Bien Hoa airfield that Russian-made jets were attempting interception of the flights. He reported the North Vietnamese "have radar and very good antiaircraft."

There have been unconfirmed reports during the past week of stepped up sabotage activity by South Vietnamese agents in the form of mines and bombing around the North Vietnamese cities of Hanoi, Vinh, Thanh Hoa and Haiphong.

Demolition Team

"I heard of a demolition team that blew up a bridge in the North last week," Ky said.

A U. S. adviser at the airport said: "Remember, to a lot of these young guys, North Viet Nam isn't another country. The border doesn't mean anything to them. It's more like northern Viet Nam."

A dapper, mustachioed officer in his mid 30s, Ky advocated immediate bombing of Northr Viet Nam.

"The time is ripe," he said. "We could strike the first day, at least. The second day they would have their defenses ready, perhaps."

Ky's remarks about the missions over North Viet Nam contributed to a "march to the north" propaganda campaign opened recently by South Viet Nam's premier, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

Never before had South Viet Nam or the United States officially acknowledged direct military operations against the Red regime of Ho Chi Minh.

Informed sources in Washington, however, had reported U.S. special forces were training South Vietnamese raiders for such action. And the Communists Radio Hanoi has broadcast announcements of the trials of captured "spy commandos," the last in April.

Not New Action

Ky told reporters at Bien Hoa Airfield it's been going on a long time. He said he personally piloted a plane over North Viet Nam three years ago and that the raids continue.

He said Russian-made jets attempted interceptions of the flights and the North Vietnamese have radar and good antiaircraft batteries, but "we keep very low and they can't hit us."

However, a high U.S. official, who declined use of his name, discounted Ky's own 1961 trip as ancient history and said he had no knowledge of continuing overflights.

"I don't think you should make too much of Ky's remarks and they shouldn't be taken out of context," he told a reporter. "It sounds as if we're on the verge of war when, in reality, we're not. I hope this thing doesn't get out of hand."

Khanh Charges

For several weeks Premier Khanh has been charging that North Vietnamese regulars were fighting as an invasion force on South Vietnamese soil. U.S. military leaders have categorically denied this.

Tocks Area Key

House Starts Fight On Park User Fees

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sharp controversy over proposals to charge fees for recreation areas and divert gasolipe taxes developed today as the House started debate on a multi-billion dollar outdoor recreation bill.

Voting on the bill itself and on numerous proposals to change it is scheduled to start Thursday.

The bill has the backing of the Johnson administration and the Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission created by Congress in 1958 to study present and future outdoor recreation needs.

It would create a land and water conservation fund from which Congress would make annual appropriations to provide recreational facilities in cooperating with states and local governments.

The fund would continue for 25 years and would derive an estimated $180 million in revenue during each of the first 10 years through admission and user fees, proceeds from the sale of surplus federal land, and revenues from motorboat fuels which now go into the federal highway fund.

Tocks Area

House passage of the land and water bill would clear one roadblock in the path of legislation to create a Tocks Island National Recreation Area in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

There are other roadblocks to passage of that legislation this year, however.

Chairman Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., of the House Interior Committee, wanted the House to consider the General Land and Water bill before it took up specific proposals to create new national parks.

Chairman Thomas Morris, D-N.M., of the House Interior Subcommittee which handles parks bills, has already ruled out any action on the Tocks Island measure this year.

He has said there is insufficient time to process a bill, especially since the subcommittee has asked the Army Engineers to submit cost and boundary details.

50-50 Match Basis

Most of the money would be made available to states on a 50-50 matching basis for planning, buying and developing land and water areas for public recreational use. The balance of the fund would be used mainly for government acquisition of needed recreation areas.

State GOP Candidates Split Over Goldwater Impact

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Republican party of Pennsylvania publicly is committed to support the presidential campaign of Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Arizona conservative.

Privately, however, some GOP candidates in the state, particularly for the General Assembly, are more than a bit concerned at the prospect of running with a Goldwater ticket.

Some are fearful that Goldwater's candidacy will benefit their Democratic opponents and have threatened, for this reason, to run independent campaigns.

The Associated Press took a random poll of some legislators and, although the results are in no way intended to be conclusive, it showed some open disenchantment with Goldwater's candidacy.

For the main, however, most of the legislators contacted felt it was too early at this point to say with authority just how Goldwater could help or hurt a candidate at the local level.

Rep. Warren Spencer, a freshman legislator from his self-described "rock-ribbed" Republican area of Tioga County, was one who frankly admitted his dissatisfaction with the national ticket.

"I'm unenthusiastic over the national ticket. . ." he said "because he (Goldwater) represents such a deviation from Republicanism as we've come to know it in Pennsylvania and Tioga County."

Spencer stopped short of disavowing the Goldwater - Miller ticket, but added that his campaign would be run independently. . . . associated more with the state ticket than the national."

Another freshman legislator from a normally Republican area said he would do nothing at all to push the Arizona senator in his area.

Prejudice and Frustration

The legislator, who preferred to remain anonymous, said bluntly:

"I think he represents the mainstream of American prejudice and frustration. . ."

However, he showed respect for Goldwater's vote getting ability, a comment designed to emphasize that his opposition to the senator was philosophical and not a personal fear of injury at the polls.

"I think the people are completely underrating this guy," the legislator theorized. "He gets a lot of the undecided vote, people who tell the pollsters they're undecided about him because they don't want to be labeled extremist."

Pessimistic

Another legislator who declined identification said he "personally . . . was pessimistic" when Goldwater was nominated, but now he wasn't so sure that it would hurt the GOP in Pennsylvania.

"I don't think anyone realizes how strong Goldwater is going to be, it's a little too early for that," he said.

". . . People are coming to me saying I'm going to be amazed at Goldwater's strength. I'm watching and I'm thinking about it, but I'm not worried at the moment."

Cecil K. Leberknight of Cambria County, another first-term legislator, was one representative who said before the GOP convention that Goldwater's candidacy would "hurt me severely."

Wednesday, he said: "In retrospect, I believe the campaign on the local level comes down to the individual and the type of job he did."

Leberknight comes from a normally Democratic district and one where, by his figures, 62 per cent of his constituency is associated with the labor movement.

Compensation Vote

For this reason, he said: "My vote in favor of the unemployment compensation bill will be the focal point of my campaign."

Lebernight was pressured by organized labor to oppose the highly controversial measure, but stood firm and labor leaders in his area have told him, he said, they were out to beat him in November.

So he can admit quite candidly: "'Unemployment compensation more than Goldwater will have a determining effect on my campaign."

Rep. Alvin C. Bush of Lycoming County took a different approach in his discussion of the Goldwater candidacy.

"I have always felt the Scranton candidacy would have a much greater positive effect on our campaigns," he said.

Bush was one of Gov. Scranton's most avid presidential supporters among the state legislators, but he doesn't appear too worried about the prospect of Goldwater on the Lycoming County ballot.

Scranton Stronger

"'Scranton would have had a stronger pull," he said, "But in our part of the state, we (Republicans) should do pretty well in any case.

"Actually, it's probably too early to tell. It always takes time for the voters' attitudes to develop and for Goldwater's campaign to be formulated."

GOP State Chairman Craig Truax has scheduled a meeting of the party's county chairmen for early August to map plans for the organization's support of Goldwater.

However, he's going to find a few dissidents among the candidates, if not the county chairmen.

Congressman James Fulton of Pittsburgh already has declared his intention to run separately from the national ticket. He declined to vote for the senator at the Convention when Scranton asked for nomination by acclamation, letting his alternate cast his vote, instead.

Politicians will be watching what Sen. Hugh Scott will do in November.

Scott, up for re-election, has yet to disavow a report that he will run independent of the Goldwater-Miller ticket.

The senator, Scranton's convention floor manager, increased interest in his position when he left San Francisco without publicly joining the governor in his plea for party unity. Nor did he congratulate Goldwater on his overwhelming victory.

28th Division Wins Praise

CAMP A. P. HILL, Va. (AP) —Pennsylvania's 28th Infantry Division was cited Tuesday by its senior Army adviser for "an exceptionally high state of proficiency" in equipment maintenance.

Col. Joseph B. Giordano praised the Army National Guard division for receiving "superior" ratings in over 80 per cent of its maintenance inspections thus far at its two-week summer camp here.

"In order to perform its central mission, a combat outfit must learn to shoot, move and communicate," Col. Giordano said. "This cannot be done without good equipment which is maintained in a high state of readiness."

State May Miss Summer Drought

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania may escape the crippling drought conditions that afflicted the state in the past two years.

Water conditions throughout the state, except in seven north central and northeastern counties, are generally good, according to spokesmen for the state Health Department and the U.S. Weather Bureau.

There is sufficient soil moisture, thanks to heavy spring rains, to carry most areas through occasional dry spells which have occurred during the summer months.

"There is no drought at present," said Clayton Rock, meteorologist at the U.S. Weather Bureau here. "While there is not too much water in the rivers, rain came this year in the proper pattern to saturate the soil. We are in a much better position than we were the past two years."

Drought conditions in 1962 and 1963 were extremely severe, resulting in municipal water shortages, declaration of numerous counties as disaster areas, and a delay in the opening of last year's small game hunting season because of the threat of widespread forest fires.

Rock said rainfall amounts during April, May, and June ranged from 2 to 7 inches more than the same period last year throughout the state, except for the middle and upper Susquehanna valley areas. They had slightly less than the amounts received in 1963.

The State Crop Reporting Service said farming conditions are good everywhere in the state except in Tioga, Bradford, Susquehanna, Wayne, Sullivan, Lackawanna and Luzerne Counties. Farmers in those counties have been permitted to use soil bank acreage for grazing and haymaking.

In 1962, the drought was so severe that 53 counties were declared eligible for reduced price purchases of government surplus grain in addition to emergency soil bank land use. In 1963, 36 counties were made eligible.

Western counties have received better than average precipitation, while most of the other counties have received sufficient rain, though spotty, to carry them through.

State foresters are keeping a watchful eye for fires, but the danger has been kept down because most woodlands are still green enough to resist flames.

"Then, too, people seem to be much more careful in the woods than they were, say 10 years ago," added Ralph Wible, state forester.

Apparently most municipalities learned valuable lessons during water shortages the last two years, many of them having taken steps to supplement supplies to assure adequate sources.

In 1963, 39 separate supply sources were critically affected and in 1962, 17 supply sources dwindled to the danger point.

"At present, no water works are in serious condition," said Harry A. Dewire, chief of the Health Department's water supply section.

"Last year's drought awakened people to the need for adequate water supplies and we don't anticipate any difficulties this year," he added.

Hamilton, GOP Leader, Dies At 54

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wilbur Hamilton, former state legislator and reigning heir of a family political dynasty, died on Wednesday in Hahnemann Hospital.

The former Republican city chairman developed chest pains while returning from the Republican National Convention in San Francisco, and was admitted to the hospital Sunday. He had a history of heart attacks.

The 54-year-old Hamilton, whose family has controlled its Manayunk - Roxborough section since the early 1900s, was a GOP candidate for the legislature in next fall's election.

Hamilton's ward, known politically as "Hamiltonville," was one of the few remaining Republican strongholds in Philadelphia He succeeded to the leadership in 1956, upon the death of a brother, William J. Hamilton Jr. The brother inherited the political mantle from his father, the late William, Sr.

Hamilton, city chairman from 1957, until he resigned under fire last summer, was a power in his party's state organization and he was favored to win a return to the legislative seat he held from 1951 until the end of 1955.

Hamilton was the youngest of five brothers, the four older preceding him into politics. Their father served in the legislature in 1919. One of the brothers, the late William J., was sheriff here for seven years and served as state secretary of revenue. Another brother, Robert S., served six years in the legislature. John is a city real estate assessor, Charles a court officer.

Gov. Scranton in a formal statement from his office said he was shocked at the death of Hamilton. The governor said:

"As a former member of the state legislature and as former Republican chairman in the city of Philadelphia, Mr. Hamilton served his party and his people well, in keeping with an outstanding family tradition. His loss is great. He will be missed."

Speaking for the members of the Democratic city committee, Francis R. Smith, described Hamilton's death as "a terrible blow at all Philadelphians, and especially to me, who knew and admitted him as a worth adversary, a thorough gentleman and a dedicated public servant.

Hamilton came under fire as city chairman last summer when it was disclosed his insurance firm received an insurance contract from the Democratic controlled Delaware River Port Authority. James T. McDermott, then the GOP candidate for mayor—he lost in the election—indicated he felt Hamilton should resign as city chairman.

State NAACP To Register 90,000 Voters

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pennsylvania chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced Wednesday plans for a massive drive to register an estimated 90,000 Negroes for the November election.

The campaign is to start Aug. 1 and run through Sept. 14. The program will include contacting candidates for office, both state and national, to determine their attitudes on issues.

Henry R. Smith, state NAACP president, said "There are as many as 120,000 Negro voters in Pennsylvania who are not eligible to vote in the November election. We are hopeful of having at least 75 per cent of this group become eligible through the efforts of local branches."

Scout Gets Dinosaur Bone In Swap

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) —"Nobody believes me," says 13-year-old Gordon Halldin of Kansas City, Kan., "but I got a petrified dinosaur bone in a swap with a scout from Colorado."

"It's been great," reports Arthur Tuason, 14, of Manila, Philippines. "I'm proud I could come and represent my country."

"You learn a great deal about people from all over the United States," says Philip Bunter of Uvalde, Texas.

"And from the world," adds Bill Caruso, 16, Moss Point, Miss.

These are some of the voices at the Sixth National Boy Scout Jamboree in historic Valley Forge. The week-long encampment ends Thursday night with a gigantic pageant that President Johnson will fly in from Washington to watch.

Sounds and Sights

There are many other sounds and sights:

You see 52,000 scouts living in 30,000 tents on a 1,900-acre site — hiking, cooking, swapping, yelling, playing, working at campcraft, shoting arrows, firing rifles and shotguns, fly-casting with fishing rods.

You hear the cheers of scout patrols trying to outdo the kids living in the campsite on the other side of the giant oak, the patriotic songs around campfires as the wood smoke smarts the eyes of boys sitting too close to the flickering flames, the tramp-tramp-tramp of feet on historic trails up hils and down valleys.

PIDA Votes Loans For 12 Industries

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority, in its first meeting of the new fiscal year, gave tentative approval Tuesday to $2,201,200 in loans for 12 industrial projects.

At the same time the board gave final approval to eight loan applications totaling $1,466,-694.

The new loans are expected to create 1,565 new jobs in the state with a total payroll of $8,-344,693, according to Clifford L. Jones, deputy secretary of commerce and PIDA executive director.

Some loans receiving tentative approval were.

Hazleton — An application by Greater Hazleton Community-Area New Development Organization, Inc. for a loan of $63,200 to finance a new building for the expansion of a Pennsylvania manufacturer. An estimated 20 new jobs are expected to be created within one year.

Mount Carmel — An application by Mount Carmel District Industrial Fund, Inc., for a loan of $40,000 to finance an addition for expansion of a metal manufacturer. Within two years, an estimated 50 new jobs are expected to be created.

Another application by Mount Carmel District Industrial Fund, Inc., for a loan of $17,600 to be used for acquisition purposes. As a result of this project, 75 new jobs are expected to be created.

Scranton — An application by Scranton Lackawanna Industrial Building Company for a loan of $600,000 to construct a new building for the expansion of Affiliated Food Distributors, Inc. This project will create an estimated 75 new jobs.

Wilkes-Barre—An application by Area Industrial Development, Inc. of Wilkes-Barre for a loan of $314,600 to construct a new building for manufacturing. The project is expected to create 85 additional jobs.

Hazleton — An application by Greater Hazleton Community-Area New Development Organization, Inc. for a loan of $524,-800 to be used for financing a new building project.

State Democrats Claim GOP Support For Johnson

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania Democrats said Wednesday they were receiving substantial pledges of support by registered Republicans to work for the election of Presiden Johnson.

"These voluntary responses, many through telephone calls and many through direct word, cover a broad field," State Chairman Otis B. Morse said.

"They range from offers to do volunteer work for the election of President Johnson to general statements of endorsement of the Johnson administration and its strong record of accomplishment for the nation."

Morse did not specify how many Republicans have offered to support Johnson in November.

The GOP volunteers, he said, "are deeply troubled, they say, over the extremist posture of Sen. Barry Goldwater. . .

"They are telling us frankly they are alarmed over the Goldwaterism which represents warmongering on the international front and hate-mongering here at home."

Father: Dead Boy Not Left Unattended

STROUDSBURG — Claude R. Werkheiser of Stroudsburg, RD 3, said yesterday that his eight-year-old boy was not left unattended before he apparently swallowed an undetermined amount of gasoline which killed him on Friday, July 18.

Curtis was playing with his seven-year-old cousin, Todd A. Kresge at the time. Both of the children were left in the custody of Mrs. Ruth Kresge, Werkheiser's sister, he said.

"I'm not blaming my sister, nor do I blame anyone. They were very active children, and its hard to control and keep your eye on them all the time," Werkheiser said.

Wife On Errand

"Both of the boys were playing at my sister's house when my wife went on an errand. Occassionally they would go up to the block plant to play," he explained. Werkheiser makes cinder blocks in a plant near his home.

"One of my foremen returned home and caught them in the block plant smelling the gasoline. He chased them out and told Mrs. Kresge about it," Werkheiser said.

"The boys stayed out of the building for awhile. Unfortunately, my boy returned to the building and played with the gasoline can."

John C. F. Foelker, Monroe County coroner, said the death was "purely accidental," but said he would continue his investigation.

Gov. Surprised By Rumor

HARRISBURG (AP)—A high-ranking state official reported yesterday Gov. Scranton appeared "rather surprised" at reports he would be asked to call a special session of the legislature to realign House and Senate seats.

"He wondered how the whole thing got started," declared George I. Bloom, secretary of state and former Republican state chairman.

"He gave no indication that he was thinking of such a move," said Bloom. "And frankly I don't see how he could call a special session until we get some decision by the Supreme Court."

"In establishing American independence the pen and the press had a merit equal to that of the sword." David Ramsay, American physician, historian and author of "The History of the American Revolution."

Oil, Gas Drillers Quit In Centre

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) —Two drillers for oil and natural gas in virgin territory of Centre County abandoned their efforts Tuesday.

Mobil Oil Co., which had been drilling for gas or oil at Jacksonville, 15 miles east of Bellefonte, since last November, called its quits after boring to a depth of 15,662 feet.

Industry circles here said the hole may have been the deepest ever dug in Pennsylvania searching for liquid fuel.

The other dry hole was abandoned at a depth of 8,200 feet by New York State Natural Gas Co. The company had been drilling for gas on a mountain about 12 miles northwest of Bellefonte.

Republican Platform

Although this newspaper has been critical of many of the statements, votes and opinions of Senator Barry Goldwater, we believe it would be unfortunate if his constructive proposals were lost in the heat of campaign attacks upon everything he stands for.

We believe that Senator Goldwater and the Republican platform of 1964 have many valuable suggestions for the good of this nation. We do not believe that President Johnson and the Democrats have the right answer to every problem facing the nation today.

Following are some of the planks of the Republican platform with which we agree:

1. The federal government should plan and achieve a balanced budget every year.

The Republican platform charges that the Democratic administration "despite pledge of economy, burdened this nation with four unbalanced budgets in a row, creating deficits totaling $26 billion, with still more debt to come, reflecting a rate of sustained deficit spending unmatched in peacetime."

President Johnson last Saturday announced with pride that the 1964 fiscal year deficit had actually been only $8.3 billion. Economies in government cut it from original estimates of $11.9, which is to be praised.

But President Kennedy and Johnson both planned their budget deficits as a conscious national policy. President Eisenhower did not, although he holds the prize for the highest peacetime budget deficit with a $12.4 billion shortage in 1959.

Liberal economic philosophy holds that deficits are needed to pump the economy up to full employment. That thesis is clearly not working.

It has run the national debt over $300 billion and annual interest on that debt over $10 billion—one of the largest single items in the federal budget.

2. The Republican platform pledges a "revitalization of municipal and county governments throughout America by encouraging them and private citizens as well, to develop new solutions of their major concerns through a streamlining and modernizing of state and local processes of government . . ."

This is another plank on which Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton stood beside Goldwater.

We believe this to be one of the most serious public problems in America today. It is a national problem, but it can only be solved by local and state initiative, not federal programs.

3. The Republican platform pledges to give American farmers "maximum opportunity to exercise their own management decisions on their own farms, while resisting all efforts to impose upon them further federal controls . . ." That is good.

But at another point, the platform promises "price supports free of political manipulation in order to stimulate fair market prices . . . while resisting all efforts to make the farmer dependent for his economic survival . . . upon . . . the federal government . . ."

This is contradictory.

The whole system of farm subsidies should be overhauled and cut back as much as possible to allow free enterprise and free market conditions to determine prices and economic survival of farmers. The nation should not be asked to support forever an artificial and highly expensive farm subsidy program.

The platform is too cautious and political on this point, apparently fearing loss of Republican votes in farm states.

4. The Republican platform calls for a reduction in federal spending of at least $5 billion, and subsequent reductions in income taxes and excise taxes.

This is an admirable proposal, but full of more political hope than practical proposals for bringing it to reality. Everyone would like to see the federal budget cut, but everyone wants it cut without hurting federal services they enjoy.

The Republican platform recommends new bombers and weapons which will cost as much as the platform proposes to save. The practical effect would probably be to hold the line rather than to cut the budget.

Nevertheless, this is the spirit of economy which the nation wants and is getting to some degree from President Johnson, who has obviously heard this conservative fiscal cry in the country and agreed with it.

These are all important themes of the Republican platform and the Goldwater argument which should not be buried during the campaign battle.

The Allen-Scott Report

Goldwater Seeks Hoover Meeting On Race Riots

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Senator Barry Goldwater is seeking a conference with FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover on the mounting wave of racial disorders in various states, particularly New York and Mississippi.

Purpose of the Republican presidential nominee is to ascertain the factors and forces behind the intensifying disturbances and violence.

It is not known whether President Johnson is aware of his rival's desire to meet with the head of the FBI. The assumption is there will be no interference with that.

The proposed meeting was suggested by Goldwater's close advisers. They urged it on two grounds:

That in preparation for his campaign, the candidate should get all the information that was to do direct to the leading authority in the country on the matter.

The Republican standard - bearer's advisers also were aware that a group of Southern senators, led by Senator James Eastland, Miss., chairman of the Judiciary Committee, are preparing to deliver a series of speeches charging that Communists and leftists are inciting the racial outbreaks.

These senators will name names and present other detailed supporting evidence.

The staff of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, also headed by Eastland, is assisting in the drafting of these addresses and the accompanying explosive documentation.

Several Southern senators are known to have urged Goldwater to demand the publication of an FBI report on Communist infiltration of civil rights organizations. This comprehensive study was circulated among high administration officials in the spring, but has never been released.

Existence of this report is known, but its dynamite - loaded contents are not. There has been considerable conjecture about them, but no positive information.

Senator Goldwater is still undecided what to do. It is deemed very likely he will discuss the matter when he confers with FBI Director Hoover. The candidate's aides anticipate he will be guided by Hoover's wishes.

The advisers also are pointing out that another reason Goldwater wants to meet with the FBI chief is because the President recently sent him to Mississippi for the express purpose of stressing his renowned agency's "presence" in that race-troubled state.

In the separate White House sessions the President is holding this week with business and labor leaders he will appeal to them to aid the effort to avert racial strife.

GOLDWATER'S "ARMY"— The basic structure of Senator Goldwater's triumphant convention "army" will be used to spark his high - powered campaign for the White House.

At the San Francisco convention, the delegations were divided into five regional groups, each under a director and they, in turn, under the overall command of Denison Kitchel, Phoenix attorney and long-time assistant of the candidate. This system will be continued in the fall contest.

That was strongly recommended by Goldwater's advisers and approved by him. These key regional leaders are as follows:

Lloyd Waring, investment banker and former Massachusetts Republican State Chairman, to be in charge of Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, New York Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Wayne Hood, Wisconsin GOP Chairman, who will direct the Great Lakes area which includes Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Richard Herman, Omaha, Neb., manufacturer, in charge of Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Missouri and Oklahoma.

John Brenter, young Birmingham attorney, who will lead the Southern states — Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

Stephen Shaddegg, Phoenix, campaign manager of Goldwater's 1952 and 1958 senatorial races, will be boss of the Western region including Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Wyoming, Utah, Oregon, Washington, Alaska, and Hawaii.

POLITICALS — Aim of Republican National Committee finance chiefs is a $13.5 million campaign fund. That's what Senator Goldwater told GOP State Chairmen at his meeting with them after his nomination. He expressed confidence this fund would be raised, even though the committee is starting virtually from scratch as no reserves were built up under former National Chairman William Miller, now the vice presidential candidate . . . Senator Margaret Chase Smith, Me., whose presidential candidacy got few votes but many cheers for her courage and persistence has assured Goldwater she will campaign vigorously for the national ticket. Said Mrs. Smith, "I'm a Republican and have been all my life. I intend to remain one, and will do my very best for you."

Dear Abby

Table Manners Always Useful

DEAR ABBY: Our son spent a year at the State University and now he thinks he is ready to educate his parents.

This is what happened. He met a very high-class girl, and before she would introduce him to her family she gave him some lessons in table manners. This girl and her parents are motoring through our town this summer and they plan to stop here to meet us.

Our son offered to give his mother and me a few pointers in table manners like this girl gave him. I told him over my dead body. What is your opinion of: (A) a girl who would give a young man lessons on how to eat? (B) a young man who would suggest giving his parents the same lessons?

KNOWS HOW TO EAT

DEAR KNOWS: (A) Apparently the girl thought your son needed the lessons, and she liked him well enough to teach him. I admire her. (B) Your son is well - motivated in offering to teach you. If you don't care to learn, that's your business. But don't get sore about it. The girl's parents probably know that table manners aren't everything — as you do.

DEAR ABBY: I don't drive a car, never have, and all my friends know it so, naturally, I must depent on others for rides. Whenever there is a club meeting, church doings, or something my friends know I want to attend, why must I call THEM and beg a ride? Don't you think they should call ME and offer a ride? It seems, around here, if you don't ask you don't go.

NOT PUSHY

DEAR NOT PUSHY: Most people are too preoccupied with their own business to guess who needs a ride. And unless you ask, they have no way of knowing. Don't be so sensitive. If you need a ride, call whomever you think is going and ask for a lift. If you are pleasant, prompt and appreciative, and do not take them out of their way, I am sure you will be welcome.

DEAR ABBY: A couple who lived in our neighborhood recently split up. When the wife left she took everything that wasn't nailed down, including all the linen, kitchen utensils, appliances, you name it.

Last week one of the neighbors called and invited us to a shower for the husband! She said she thought it would be nice if we all got together and helped to put him back into housekeeping.

Abby, have you ever heard of giving a MAN a shower because his wife left and took everything?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: No. What this country needs is a good all-purpose umbrella to protect us against showers.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "K" IN DETROIT: Don't wait too long for a 38-year-old "boy" whose mother still waits up for him.

Walter Lippmann

Extremism Versus Law

By Walter Lippmann

LOS ANGELES — There is a furor which is not mere word - slinging since Sen. Barry Goldwater justified extremism, saying that in "the defense of liberty" it "is no vice," and attacked moderation, saying that "in the pursuit of justice" it "is no virtue."

Coming from a candidate for President, these wise cracks can interfere dangerously with the maintenance of law and order in this time of mounting lawlessness.

Since he uttered the words in his acceptance speech on Thursday, the senator has been defending himself. What he had to say to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, who felt "confused," makes it quite clear that Senator Goldwater does not understand the meaning of extremism and that he has never realized the fundamental principal which is at stake in the argument about it.

According to his campaign manager, Denison Kitchel the senator said to General Eisenhower: "The most extreme action that you can take in the defense of freedom is to go to war. When you led those troops across the Channel into Normandy, you were being an extremist."

The crucial truth is that, when General Eisenhower went to war, he was not a private individual. He was not a member of a private and secret society.

He was the commander appointed by the legitimate governments of Great Britain and the United States. He was commanding troops recruited by due process of law. He was engaged in a war which had been authorized by the two governments.

The essence of the matter is that to be an extremist is to encourage and condone the taking of the law into unauthorized private hands. It is in truth shocking that the Republican candidate for President is unconscious of this sovereign truth.

For the distinction between private violence and public force is the central principle of a civilized society.

It has been a long, and as yet uncompleted, struggle to extend the reign of law.

In the course of it civilized men have sought, and in a certain measure they have succeeded, in establishing a paramount rule: that no individual or society of individuals may decide for themselves that the defense of liberty and the pursuit of justice require them to go to war or to commit violence.

The private defense of liberty and the private administration of justice are lynch law. Private killing is murder. Private war is insurrection.

It is not only in the deadly business of private violence that extremism is intolerable. A civilized society does not condone any breach of the peace, such as spitting in an ambassador's face, no matter how ardently it is done in the self-induced conviction that it is in the defense of liberty and the pursuit of justice.

It is extremism to say that communism is the enemy of the United States and then to declare that General Eisenhower or the New York Times or the anti - Goldwater columnists are working for the public enemy.

No private individual has a private right to brand American citizens as traitors. That can be done only by due process of law, and to do it privately is libelous.

The laws of libel do not permit the private assassination of private character.

If ever there was time, it is now, when it is against the public interest to tell men that they may take extreme measures in what they believe the defense of liberty and the pursuit of justice.

There is a racial conflict in this country, and there is a strong tendency to private violence on both sides, among the white and among the black.

With the private shootings, the private burnings, the private bomb throwings, the private mobs, is it not the duty of every American to rally to the defense of law and order?

But how can there be such a rally if we must endure an election in which the challenging contender is telling the inflammable crowd that extremism may be no sin and that moderation may be no virtue?

The Pennsylvania Story

Congressmen Forgotten

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — Congressmen often complain somewhat bitterly about being the "left outs" — and perhaps not without good reason.

The upcoming election this fall is perhaps as good an illustration as any.

Virtually everyone who reads the public prints knows there's going to be a President elected this fall. In a passive sort of way many know Pennsylvania will elect a new U. S. Senator, a new State Auditor General, a new State Treasurer, a new State House of Representatives (all 209 of 'em), and half the 50-member State Senate, among others.

But how many realize that all of Pennsylvania's congressmen have their noggins on the block this year?

In the case of the first four offices, they're "singles"; that is, there aren't a flock of candidates to confuse the issue.

In the case of the latter two groups — State Senators and members of the House of Representatives — there are a flock of candidates, it is true, but these candidates are local people who won't be traveling further than Harrisburg and will be back home in the bustings more than they'll be away.

Additionally, and this is perhaps more important than anything else, what they do as State legislators will be quite close to home and of considerable direct concern to the folks back home.

Now you come to the congressional sports and they're certainly in the middle — or more pointedly perhaps: the "left outs."

In Pennsylvania this year we'll have 27 of these "left outs" up for consideration (a reduction of three from the former 30 member Pennsylvania congressional bloc resulting from reapportionment in 1964).

Pennsylvania's congressmen, like congressmen from other states, hike off to far away Washington to do their official business.

They dabble in foreign aid, foreign policy, congressional investigations — and such matters that deal with the nation as a whole, and this nation happens to be a big one.

They're in Washington most of the time — most of the year. Their congressional districts in most cases embrace two or more counties.

In a nutshell they're about as remote from their home folks as a polar bear.

Yet — their chore is critically important. For example they help determine whether this country shall go to war; in effect whether it shall face extinction!

By virtue of these facets, congressmen are an odd lot; they're placed in a sometimes awkward position — particularly with the folks at home who put them in office in the first place.

Too many people fail to even distinguish between a congressman and an assemblyman — the former the local legislator who goes to Washington to sit in Congress, the latter the local legislator who goes to Harrisburg to sit in the Legislature.

The state legislator has it all over his Washington counterpart. State lawmakers deal with close - to - home items as local schools, a constituent's license plate, etc. Congressmen have nothing as tangible, as close-to-the-bone on which to nibble — and then as we've already noted, their districts are far larger than an Assemblyman's district which of course means less closer liaison.

Yet the congressman's role is a frightfully vital role in the overall picture. He plays a unique part; a vital part. For example, the composition of the present 27 - man congressional bloc from Pennsylvania is 14 Republican members and 13 Democratic members. A solid bloc one way or the other obviously could have much to do with the success or failure of a presidential program.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Some Questions Readers Are Asking

By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

Where can the Safety Medallion of the American Medical Association be purchased?

Please write directly to the American Medical Association at 535 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois 60610. Information can also be obtained from your local county or state medical societies.

It is gratifying that so many readers are anxious to participate in this program of health preservation by wearing the medallion.

This symbol of the American Medical Association quickly identifies any special medical problem of the wearer and describes special treatment he may require in case of emergency.

• • •

Is ether still used as an anesthetic for surgery?

Yes, but not as often as formerly. It is being replaced by a new and even safer inhalation anesthetic, called halothane. Post-operative nausea and discomfort are greatly reduced with this new anesthetic.

• • •

Can doctors predict the sex of a child at any time during pregnancy?

There are limitless old wives' tales, new wives' tales, grandmothers' superstitions, and myths about "pink or blue," and they all have a 50-50 chance of being right. Having a doctor add his guess will not change the odds.

• • •

Will you explain the difference between saturated and unsaturated fat?

There are three main groups of food fats—saturated, monosaturated and polyunsaturated. Saturated fats tend to increase the important cholesterol level in the blood.

Monosaturated fats do not affect the cholesterol level.

Polyunsaturated fats actually tend to lower the level of cholesterol.

The healthy body can use and assimilate a moderate amount of all of these fats. But an excess of any kind of fat is undesirable. Even if your health is not directly and immediately affected, too many calories make too many pounds. And fat of any kind is extremely high in calorie content.

The personal dietary requirements of each individual may vary with age and the general condition of the body.

• • •

Can the Stapes operation help nerve deafness?

Absolutely not. The Stapes operation is performed only to correct certain defects in the middle ear. It is especially helpful in some cases of otosclerosis, a congenital and familial type of conductive deafness.

• • •

What is meant by the aerosol treatment of lung conditions?

"Aerosol" means a fine, misty spray. It is not a medication. It is a method of giving medication. Many medicines, like adrenalin or antibiotics, are sometimes administered in an aerosol solution.

Make A Date With Tony

Glen Brook Country Club has seen some pretty fair swingers adorn its golf course in suburban Stroudsburg. Top professionals and amateurs have graced the 18-hole layout and turned in enviable scores. But none have ever held the magnitude of the man who will play for the benefit of the General Hospital of Monroe County, Aug. 14.

Champagne Tony Lema, the most colorful linksman to rejuvenate the play - for - pay ranks in quite a spell will meet four regional top-notchers in an exhibition at Glen Brook, the afternoon of the 14th.

Lema is the golfer who opened the eyes of the staid empire linksmen with phenomenal rounds to win the British Open.

Lema's victory in the suburbs of Ireland came on the heels of the Thunderbird Open — the reason he's able to come to the Poconos via Ford Company's sponsorship.

Tony is not a temper-losser like Tommy Bolt. Nor is he a Jimmy Demaret molded Bea Brummel. But he is exciting and the added tag of bubbling stuff adds more flavor to his appearance than just a tonic.

Currently — the past four months — Lema is the hottest attraction on the professional trail. Except for possibly Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, Lema is the best professional golf can offer for any exhibition of this type at the present time.

There is no reason why an overflow crowd isn't present Tuesday at 1 p.m., Aug. 14. First, the onlookers will be seeing one of the finest players in America today. Second, the exhibition proceeds will go to an institution close and near to our hearts — The General Hospital of Monroe County.

The committee in charge have priced the ducats at a figure that could be called a steal. When you consider you'll see Lema swinging away at par, plus four foes who are rated among the better golfers in the region the cost of the tickets is actually secondary. It's a match that can't be missed.

The Pocono Mountains is a golfers paradise. The invasion of Lema will add more stature and glory to a past that holds only the best of memories in the links world.

Set aside Aug. 14 for a date with Tony. We don't guarantee his bag will be filled with champagne but you will be able to tote 'em home plenty of good golf before the afternoon is finished.

About Town

In this current issue Life magazine takes the bull by the horns and shows the new topless bathing suits on both animate and inanimate models. It also has photographs of ladies of the court in the 17th and 18th centuries who wore short bodices which predated the industrial revolution and antedated the romantic age.

The concentration of wealth will never be a problem as long as we have those great institutions for redistributing it — taxes, wives and children.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

Narcissus

Narcissus, according to Greek mythology, was the extremely handsome son of the river god Cephissus.

The nymph Echo fell in love with Narcissus, but he ignored her. Finally, Echo pined away to nothing but a voice.

The gods, angry at his treatment of Echo, caused Narcissus to visit a certain pool. As he knelt and bent to get a drink of water, Narcissus saw his reflection in the pool. He fell in love with the reflection and sat by the pool. He fell in love with the reflection and sat by the pool for days, admiring his mirrored image. As he sat there, the gods changed him into a flower.

The nymphs of the forest found the flower at the spot where Narcissus had sat, and they gave it his name.

PM Board Hopes To Lure Teacher Back With $350

SWIFTWATER — The policy and personel commitee of the Pocono Mountain Joint District agreed last night to offer an English teacher an additional $350 to cover extra duties as an incentive to keep the teacher from taking a job in New Jersey.

At a committee meeting in the junior - senior high school, C. Willis Dunlap, supervising principal, read a letter of resignation from A. J. Caprioli, who had decided to leave Pocono Mountain to take a position in Hanover, N.J. that pays $7,000 a year.

Dunlap told the committee he would like to keep Caprioli on the staff. He recommended compensation for some of the extra curricular duties he performs.

Upped To $6,150

Dunlap told the committee that at Pocono Mountain, Caprioli will earn $5,550 next year, plus $350 for coaching the debating team, a team he has led to success in the last three years.

School director Clair Wittof Tunkhannock Township suggested Dunlap be authorized to offer the teacher an additional $350 for directing two class plays and organizing the school's junior prom.

"Excellent Teacher"

Dr. Edmund Magann, president of the joint school committee, said the district would have to offer something if it hoped to keep Caprioli, who Magann termed an "excellent teacher."

The committee agreed that Caprioli had done a good job at Pocono Mountain and authorized Dunlap to find out if Caprioli will accept the $350 and stay at Pocono Mountain.

At a joint school committee meeting following the policy and personnel session, the school directors awarded a $12,000 bid to build an aluminum chain-link fence around the entire athletic area behind the high school building.

Met Specifications

David Neison, district business manager, noted the bid was the highest received by the building and grounds committee but the only one to meet specifications. The contract will be awarded to the Chain Link Co.

The move is the first step in completing a long-range athletic building program, estimated to cost $117,000.

Although it was not specifically mentioned last night, it is presumed the money to build the fence will come from a $38,000 fund, budgeted over the past two years to help pay for the athletic program.

The joint committee also hired W. Clayton Coffman of Cresco to supervise the erection of the fence. Coffman prepared the specifications for building the fence.

Harry Rider, a school director from Paradise Township, questioned the propriety of hiring Coffman to supervise the job, in the face of an agreement the district has with Kooken, Stapler Associates. Kooken, Stapler Associates has a contract with the district to design the proposed athletic stadium and related facilities.

Atty. Phillip Williams, acting school solicitor, told the board it would have no committment to the architects if a fence was not included in the original plans.

Neison said no fence was included in the plans.

In other action the committee:

—Authorized Joseph Murray, athletic director, to offer Pocono Mountain's football field to Stroud Union High School to use as its home field next season. Stroud Union is without home grounds because of a building program.

—Awarded a bid to Thomas Hochrine of Tobyhanna for two school bus routes in Coolbaugh Township for a combined rate of $40.08 a day. The committee made the provision that Hochrine supply a 73-passenger bus. If he does not the bid will revert to the next low bidder—Delaware Valley Transportation Co. —at $41 a day.

—Hired Stanley Iskowitz of Canadensis and Donald Robbins Jr. of Tannersville as school bus drivers at $2 per hour.

—Authorized Neison to purchase a $257 service contract to cover repair and maintenance of the district's business machine.

Awarded a $333 contract to Stroudsburg Typewriter Co. to service and repair school typewriters.

Cook School For Poconos Only Needs Federal Okay

STROUDSBURG — John Dougherty, manager of the Pennsylvania State Employment Office at 408 Main St., Stroudsburg, siad yesterday that a 52-week job-training program for cooks in conjunction with a two-year apprenticeship system, for the local area is now awaiting approval in Washington.

The program, under the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962, will be financed by federal funds to increase the number of trained workers in Monroe County.

Dougherty said that unemployment here reaches a summertime low of 2 per cent, but goes up to a high of 9 per cent during the winter months. The reason, he said, is that resorts employ 8,000 persons during the summer, but only 2,000 in wintertime.

The big problem in Monroe County, he continued, is "underemployment." He explained that this is a term which implies a person who is not working at full capability because of lack of training, or obsolescence of previously acquired skills.

There are a number of possible solutions, Dougherty said. The Monroe County Manpower Advisory Committee, of which he is chairman, will meet soon to survey employment in the county and develop a program to meet the needs of the area.

Dougherty said his office can also set up training programs to meet the skill needs of specific established or new industries in the county. Money is available from three sources.

The Manpower Development and Training Act provides funds for room, board, transportation and training in courses for the underemployed. If the person is from a household whose head is unemployed, or from a farm family with less than $1200 annual income, cash allowance is also made.

Funds for the program are paid by the federal government. In 1965, Pennsylvania will begin to pay one-half the program's cost.

The second source is the Area Redevelopment Act. Dougherty said Monroe is eligible under this act because of the large number of low-income farm families here. Programs and allowances are similar to those of MDTA, but funds are and will continue to be entirely from federal sources.

Finally, he said, the state Department of Public Instruction will set up training programs of less than 16 weeks. However, no allowances other than tuition are provided.

Dougherty is very much in favor of the establishment of an area vocational-technical school for continued training to relieve the problem of underemployment. He said the area particularly needs courses to increase the skill level in the durable goods industry.

Miss Loretta Fleming, occupational analyst and manpower training coordinator for the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre District of which Monroe County is a part of the state Department of Employment Security said that many training programs are underway or being planned in the Scranton area.

Unemployment in Wilkes-Barre, for instance, she said, is now at 8 per cent, having declined from 12 per cent. Courses there are planned to meet local needs, and include auto repairs, nurses aides, auto body repairs, sheet metal work, and others.

Miss Fleming continued that a stepup in training, such as that underway by her department, improves the economic level of the entire community, and increases the number and kinds of services available to it.

She cited the increasing rapidity of technological change as the reason for current emphasis on adult training. A man may have to be retrained several times during his lifetime if skills required in his job change due to new methods and materials, according to Miss Fleming.

Individuals from the area who desire and are qualified for training not offered in Monroe County can be sent elsewhere to secure it, Dougherty said. However, he pointed out, they must register with his office, or he has no way of knowing who they are. He stressed the fact that they are encouraged to register by the state agency.

Lions Host Canadian For 4 Weeks

MARSHALLS CREEK—"Most Americans think Canadians live on an iceberg," Mark Cousineau, 14, of Sturgeon Falls, Ontario, Canada, said yesterday. Mark, Peter Divine, 15, also of Sturgeon Falls, and Mike Tiernay, 12, of Burk's Falls, Ontario, are visiting in the Poconos as exchange students under the sponsorship of the Stroudsburg Lions Club.

The youths will stay at club members' and friends' homes in the Poconos for four weeks. Their stay started July 18 and will end Aug. 8.

The program is sponsored by Lions International through its local clubs for the exchange of American and Canadian boys between the ages of 12 to 14. The Lions hope to improve in*ternational public relations be*tween Canada and the United States.

The boys will spend much of their time traveling to historic and interesting spots in the Pocono Mountains.

So far they have found the U.S. to be much like Canada. In fact, Stroudsburg reminds them of Sturgeon Falls. Their biggest thrill to date was a trip to New York City where they saw the New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles game. It was the first baseball game the boys had ever seen.

They have also visited Bushkill Falls and the Pocono Wild Animal Farm. Trips are planned to the New York World's Fair and Dorney Park in Allentown. Above all, the boys would like to see more ball games.

Mark remarked that sales taxes are much higher here than in Canada. He also was surprised to find toll roads and bridges. "They are few and far between in Canada," he said. Another difference the young Canadians noted is the large number of swimming pools to be found here. They said Canadians don't need pools because there are so many lakes.

Somewhat Like Pennsylvania

The boys want it understood that Canada is not a frozen wasteland. They admitted it does get chilly — 40 degrees below zero — but said most of the time the climate is about like Pennsylvania.

The trio believe schools are tougher in Canada. "There is no Junior High. High school goes to the 13th grade," they said.

Peter was surprised to find he couldn't spend Canadian money in America. In Canada, U.S. money is accepted, he said.

Asked if they would like to visit the U. S. again, the boys agreed they would. However, they would prefer to see the West on their next trip.

One of the boys, Mike, is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Joseph, East Stroudsburg, RD. Mrs. Joseph said she has enjoyed having Mike. "He is a very happy and a contented boy. I will hate to see him go," she said.

The boys will stay or have stayed at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Katz, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lasicky, Dr. and Mrs. A. Fegley, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Pardee Place, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Boushell, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Silvers, and Dr. and Mrs. Seymour Pollan.

Their travel was arranged by Lions Club members. Boushell is president of the local Lions Club.

GOOD NEIGHBOR POLICY—A warm welcome was extended yesterday by teenagers(left to right) Pamela Cleveland of Marshalls Creek and Nancy Silfee of East Stroudsburg to visiting Canadians Peter Devine, 15, Mike Tierney,12, and Mark Cousineau, 14. Stroud Union Area Beehive Of Activity

By Gil Murray
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — The 63-acre complex on W. Main St., owned by the Stroud Union Schol District, is a beehive of activity this summer.

Not only are 8,000 youngsters and parents enjoying the playground, pool and picnic facilities every week, but the school district is building a new junior high school, athletic stadium and making extensive renovations to the senior high school building.

The $1,410,000 building project is presently under construction. The junior high school will be built immediately behind the high school building and will have a connecting passageway.

What was Gordon Giffels Field will be converted in a play and physical education area.

The new 6,000 seat athletic stadium will be built to the west of the baseball diamond and will be complete with parking areas.

The stadium will also have a fieldhouse with lockerroom facilities for 100 athletes. Included in the construction plans are a new softball field and tennis courts.

To Be Re-Equipped

In the high school building, the physics and chemistry laboratories will be re-equipped and the auditorium is being outfitted with new seating.

According to Samuel O. Wells, III, assistant high school principal and borough recreation director, the building program will also enlarge the playground and picnic area.

Wells, who has proudly supervised the playground for the last 14 years, said, during the course of a playground tour, "We have one of the finest recreation staffs here that is possible."

He was referring to the fact that three of the county's four directors are staff members.

Wells pointed out, Sam Everitt of Pocono Mountain, George Metropolis of Stroud Union and Thomas Gross of Pleasant Valley, all combine to give children expert supervising during summer months.

Free Swimming Lessons

He said one of the major programs at the playground each year is a free swimming course. Wells said of the 300 children who start the course, 200 are able to swim at the end of the program.

Wells said the layout is so attractive that "people from all over come here during the summer. He said the facilities attract swimmers and picnicers from Scranton, Wilkes - Barre, Lehigh Valley and from as far away as New York City.

"We have people from New York who come here and stay in a motel for the weekend and then come here to have picnics and swim. This is a pretty reasonable way to spend a weekend in the Poconos," the recreation director contended.

Wells also had high priase for the Stroudsburg Borough Council, who operates the playground under a 30-year lease from the school district.

Keeps Up Maintenance

The borough pays all salaries and keeps up the maintenance of the area.

Wells finished his playground explanation, when he said, "With few exceptions the conduct of the people at this park and playground is exemplary . . . and much of the credit for this must go to our experienced staff."

Just Between Us — —

The prolonged heat wave is taking its toll — particularly among dispositions, which tend to sort of curdle like milk in the old icebox, pre-pasteurized days. In this so-called temperate zone we make no concessions to temperature, and by the end of the day come out damp, wilted and sour.

In tropical countries, the siesta not only avoids the worst of the heat, but people going back to work at 4 o'clock are well - rested, freshly bathed, and with a change of clothes, tend to be relaxed and obliging.

Especially hard hit this week have been the hairdressers, with cancellations common, as women simply renege on the prospect of a dryer. And there's a peculiar relationship between hair and the tongue. Like the reflex action doctors get by tapping the knee with a little rubber mallet, a straggly, spray - stiff hair - do gives women a tendency to snap at everybody.

Although in the office, I might even prefer to be snapped at than experience the dead silence from all corners of the county. Family Fare these days, apparently, consists mainly of getting through the day and waiting for a break in the weather.

In all departments the telephones are strangely quiet, visitors few and far between. Although there is an interesting style note: More men than ever have taken to shorts according to an informal survey of those who do stop in with stories.

Coolest story of the day: the baptism by immersion in the lake at Sunnybrook. Oh well, either the weather will break or we'll get acclimated; and there are enough benefit projects coming up to roust their supporters around eventually.

Pomona Grange Seeks Geographic Representation

Greeley — A resolution calling for an amendment to the Constitution of the Unites States which would permit state legislatures to be apportioned by geography as well as population was passed at the quarterly meeting of the Monroe Pike Pomona Grange held at the Greeley Community Hall.

The resolution was introduced because of a recent decision of the U.S. Supreme Court, declaring that state legislatures must be apportioned by population alone.

Among the other resolutions adopted by the Pomona Grange was one in favor of technical and vocational high schools and expansion of these fields in the present high school curriculum.

Worthy Pomona Master Percy M. Polley presided at the meeting. The charter was draped in memory of Ruby Elberta Moore. Bernice Spoor, deputy state master for Wayne County announced that State Master John W. Scott will attend the quarterly meeting of Wayne County Pomona on July 22. Polley reported on recent Eminent Domain legislation passed by the state General Assembly.

Members were urged to enter classifications in which they excel at the Delaware Valley Fair to be held Aug. 13, 14 and 15. Gertrude Hendershot will be assisted by James A. Alborano and Sadie Harford in preparing a Pomona display for the fair.

Andrew C. Teachman, Pomona Lecturer, was in charge of both the afternoon and night programs. He reported on activities at the recent leadership conference at Pennsylvania State University which he and his wife attended as representatives of Pomona.

The definitions of Republican, Democrat and Communist written by members were read. Dorothy E. Harris and Gertrude M. Hendershot gave readings.

In the sewing contest Sadie Harford of Greeley Grange was awarded first place for her handmade aprons.

Deputy State Master for Monroe and Pike Counties, Alvin L. Blitz, urged members to attend the state grange sessions in Wellsboro and National Grange to be held in Atlantic City in November.

A ham dinner was served by the women of Greeley Grange between sessions. They also served refreshments after the meeting.

The next meeting will be held at Mount Prospect Grange on Saturday, Oct. 17.

Knocks Without Boosts Can Hurt; Fish Nets For Funds

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

Dear Roberta Roesch:

My husband doesn't give me any encouragement in anything I want to do. As a matter of fact, he discourages me constantly. Do other women run into this impasse?

Mrs. J. D.

Dear Mrs. J. D.:

Indeed they do! In fact, it's a common complaint and an unhappy situation in many households. When you have it—and count your blessings if you don't—you usually have to shut your ears to the words and attitudes which discourage you.

Down To Basics

You're justified in doing this, too, because, when you get right down to basics, no human being, even with a marriage license, has the right to discourage another human being. As long as you're hurting no one else and doing the things you have to do, you have the right to reach forward!

Dear Roberta Roesch:

Can fishing nets and fishing lures be made in the home? If so where can you get the supplies to make them? Also where can you sell them to the best advantage?

Mrs. M. M.

Dear Mrs. M. M.:

We've been casting our own hook in many directions to get an answer for you, and in the process we've managed to catch some women who work on fishing nets.

Enmeshed In Work

One woman, for example, is well along in years and helps her husband in big work. Another has six children whom she cares for while she makes nets.

Most of the women, however, are wives of commercial fishermen and the work they do preparing the nets is done in their spare time at home. Usually, they secure their supplies from the fish net supply companies with whom their husbands have an account. And the problem of where to sell the nets is really no problem at all for them since the need for the nets they work on was established before they began to work.

She Can "Shut Her Eyes" To His Constant Discouragement.

In your case, if you want this kind of work, we suggest you skim the classified phone book of the city nearest you. In it, you may find business firms under the heading "Fish Nets."

Ask About Net Profits

If you do, contact them personally or by letter and ask about the possibility of making fish nets at home for them.

In the meantime, since we haven't caught on our hook any women who make fishing lures in their homes, we hope readers will write us if they do this work themselves or let us know if they know women who do.

(What's on yuor mind about jobs, careers, home businesses, moneymaking, hobbies, retirement, self-improvement opportunities or working women's problems? Send me these problems and ideas in care of this newspaper, and I will use them whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Letters need not be signed.)

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

ALL ABOUT WYCKOFF'S—

It has been years—and more years—since I last saw Frances Christine Russ, but it was no trick at all to recognize her as she shopped Tuesday in our Stationery Department. Frances was accompanied by her young son, but tells me she has three older children—and that one is married and father of a two year old boy. Makes one feel old, dosn't it? . . . A real cutey pie was the little girl seated on the top step of our main staircase the other morning. "Hi," I said, "are you lost, or do you know where your Mommie is?" She thought a minute and then announced, "Of course, I'm not lost. Here she is," and pointed toward an attractive woman in the shoe department. One never does know about children, however. Sometimes when they are downtown with their parents, they roam away from their side to come sightseeing alone in Wyckoff's. By the same token, while parents are browsing our store, the children sometimes wander away and go shopping elsewhere. Which reminds me—very frequently our store's pony, Spotty, is in the parking lot waiting to take the youngsters for a free pony ride. Next time you come in, inquire about Spotty. He'd love your little folks, and they'd love him . . . Jack Kerlin, one of our Wyckoff executives, is much relieved by the very speedy recovery of his grandson, Lance, following surgery. Wouldn't it be wonderful if all of us could spring back from illness the way children do? . . . "Papa" Wyckoff stops me in the center aisle to tell me that tickets will soon be on sale here at Wyckoff's for the concerts to be given the 11th and 12th of August at Shawnee by the Philadelphia Orchestra. A few brief months ago our Pocono Art Center dreamed of this area becoming the part-time home of Eugene Ormandy and his musicians. Now the dream is coming true. The word "thrilling" is hardly forceful or far-reaching enough to express our feelings . . . There's been some shifting around at Wyckoff's lately, have you noticed? Sadie Gussett has moved from the Shoe Department into Notions to replace Corrine Werkheiser, who has left us for the very nicest of all reasons. Kathleen Widmer, formerly of Handbags, and later of Shoes, is going to assist in Gifts and Handbags. Hilda Dimmick, who once spent most of her time selling hosiery, is now almost always to be found in Millinery and Luggage, and lately Jennie Learn, who seems to "fit in" neatly everywhere, has been assisting with the Dress and Swim Wear promotions in our Keystone Room. Back too, for both of these promotions, has been Sue Edinger who was our cosmetic buyer when she resigned a number of years ago . . . Our Swim Suit Promotion is a real opportunity to stock up on top quality, famous label suits at a very low price, have you noticed? All of our nationally advertised suits, made to sell from 13 to 30 dollars are now 8, 12, and 15.00. I remember that Miss Jantzen told me years ago that every woman who likes water sports should have at least three swim suits in her wardrobe. Each suit can then be rinsed after wearing, and thoroughly dried in fresh air and shade before another appearance on the beach. And who would be more likely to know than a swim suit model?

Bangor Water Firm Pledges To Improve Supply

BANGOR — The meeting of the Bangor Water Co. officials, representatives of the State Department of Health and the Bangor area communities drew assurances that strong efforts will be made by the company to improve the water supply to area consumers yesterday.

Meeting in the office of J. Lawrence Davis, borough solicitor, Donald Burr, top official of the water company, stated that time has been the greatest enemy of improving "a continued excellent water supply" to the Bangor area.

He also remarked that the company has errored in its efforts of public relations and every effort will be made to correct the matter. Time was not long enough, he said, to completely do all the work that the company had planned before the summer season to assure Bangor area water consumers the kind of improvements they are to receive.

He said the main purpose of the company, currently is to keep a good water supply and as soon as it is feasible to complete the work on the new reservoirs.

Burr concluded at the close of the meeting that the Bangor Water Company a subsidiary of the American Water Works, will definitely do everything in its power to re-establish community pride in the "excellent water supply" that is available for use.

In addition to Burr, the company was represented by Weldon Harris, chief engineer, Fred W. Baker local manager and Francis X. Splane, publicity director.

State department officials present were John Duerr and Ernest Kopenhaver.

Lloyd Nolan represented the Blue Ridge Textile Company, the largest industrial user of the company's product.

He expressed great interest in the future plans of the company and the quality of the water product that can be expected from the local company.

Nolan received more than satisfactory assurances that the local company can and will be able to meet the local need, industrially.

Mayors Present

Mayors Quintus LaBar of Bangor and George Giaquinto of Roseto questioned company and state officials at great length on the matter of improvement that the company plans for the future Weldon Harris, company engineer reported that one-third of the bottom of the Oxford Reservoir (Old New York Quarry) has now been cleared of debris.

He also reported that water from the Handelong water shed has been placed in this reservoir as a precaution against shortage this summer.

Albert Jones, Bangor council member who has been keeping a vigil on the water company activities in the past several months asked many questions of both the state and company officials.

Jones asked Baker if water had been pumped from the Oxford reservoir for borough use. Baker reported that one had been used to date since no pump is currently placed at that water source.

Baker did say that water had been back pumped from the Oxford to the Smith (Old Bangor Vein) Reservoir.

Jones also asked if the Joe Fells pond had ever been used as a water source by the company. Officials reported that this had never been done.

Points Of Difference

There were points of difference on the matter of water being placed in the Oxford reservoir from the Handelong water shed. Mr. Baker reported the last date was May 23 while Mr. Jones contended it was June 9.

Baker claimed that this was not re-charging of the Oxford reservoir but rather a re-circulation from the Smith reservoir, to re - establish water levels. Jones also stated that J. H. Beers, contractor had removed buckets of broken glass and tin cans from the Oxford reservoir while Baker claims this was untrue.

Meeting Requirements

Duerr reported that the Bangor Water Co. is meeting the high standard requirements of supplying water to the area consumers. He also remarked that with the new reservoirs at Oxford and Smith, the company is in a very good position to service the area with continued and good water supply. He indicated that the state is well satisfied with the efforts and program being employed by the company. Duerr also reported that the new reservoirs are being constantly tested and have met all requirements for use.

The opinion of local officials seemed to center on the fact that the company had failed to properly inform, and assure the consumers of the area that the company intends to continue to improve the local water company and its resourses. Mayor LaBar pointed out that the company had been grossly negligent.

However, a wait and see attitude on the part of local officials resulted from yesterday's meeting. The company and the state department both gave public assurances that the problem will be taken care of within the next several months and local confidence in its water supply will be re-established.

Dole Cheaters Aid Recovered

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Public Welfare Department said Saturday that $590,970 was recovered last fiscal year from persons who were found to be ineligible for public assistance.

Arlin M. Adams, secretary of public welfare, said this was a 10 per cent increase from the previous year, and added that it was even more gratifying in light of reduced relief rolls.

Local Boy Scout Describes Philmont Ranch History

The following is the first of a series of articles on a local Boy Scout's impression of three weeks of episodes at Philmont Ranch, New Mexico. They were written by Elliot Brown of 610 Bryant St., Stroudsburg).

Before I begin the story of our actual trip to Philmont I think that knowing something about the ranch is important.

The Boy Scouts of America own and operate Philmont Scout Ranch as a camp for older Scouts and Explorers. It is a 137,000 acre tract of land located near Cimarron, New Mexico. Not only does Philmont offer a camp for boys, but it also offers a well - balanced training program for volunteer leaders. It is also maintained as a year - round working ranch.

In 1841, a Spanish land grant of 96,000 acres was made to Carlos Beaubien and Guadalupe Miranda of old Mexico for the purpose of colonizing the territory with Mexican citizens. The grant consisted of a large swath of land on the east side of the Sangre de Cristo Mountain Range where Philmont is presently located.

Scout Trapper

In 1844, Lucien S. Maxwell, scout trapper, and long time friend of Kit Carson, settled in the territory and married Beaubien's daughter. Through his marriage he soon came into possession of Beaubien's land, and eventually bought out Miranda's share. In 1846, the U.S. Government claimed the territory.

A government survey showed that Maxwell's land contained more than 1,700,000 acres. this caused litigation, so that the grant was not confirmed until 1860 after which it was renamed the Maxwell Land Grant. In 1869, due to the conflict over land titles and timber and mining operations, Maxwell — the largest individual land holder in North America — sold his land interest for $650,000.

It was immediately resold to an English syndicate for double the amount. In 1922, an Oklahoma business-man, Waite Phillips, bought the land which he used for farming, livestock operations and a vacation home.

Many Should Benefit

In 1938, Waite Phillips — In order that "many, rather than few" should profit from his resourceful land — donated 35,857 acres of the most scenic, best - improved portion of this estate to the Boy Scouts of America. This section of land became the "Philturn (after the benefactor's name and "Good Turn") Rockymountain Scoutcamp."

In 1941, Phillips donated additonal land, residence, and ranch buildings, livestock and operating ranch equipment useful to Philturn, bringing the total acreage to 127,000 The camp was renamed "Philmont Scout Ranch." At the same time, he gave the Boy Scouts of America the Philtower building in Tulsa, Oklahoma as an endowment, the income from which is used to operate and develop the camp.

Rainfall of 16 Inches

Philmont has an annual rainfall of 16 inches; days are hot, nights are cool. The western boundary follows the backbone of the Cimarron and Aqua Mountains, offshoots of the Sangre de Cristo. Altitudes on Philmont range from 6,200 feet to 12,441 feet.

Philmont is rich in wild game — deer, elk, coyote, antelope, mountain lion, buffalo, wild turkey, bear — its hills and canyons teem with bird life, its streams are full of fish — its cool mountains harbor a wilderness of botany — trees, flowers, grasses — and are themselves a storehouse of living geology — the timeless record of the rocks.

In the Yemen, a man's belt is his status symbol, serving as pocket, brief case, lunch box and key ring.

Triplets are born once out of every 9,400 births.

Name-Dropping

Care to change your name? According to a survey, one-third of all adult Americans are dissatisfied with the name they bear. And in substantial numbers they are trading it for a new model.

There are two ways to make the change. In most states, you can take your choice of either method.

First, you can do it yourself. All that is necessary to to get yourself generally known by the new name. The trouble is, the process is too gradual. There may be uncertainty, at any given moment, as to whether the change has really "taken." And doubts about your name can cause complications in everything from collecting a debt to taking out insurance from getting a credit card to selling your home.

The second method of name-changing by court order, is far better. A formal request is submitted to the appropriate tribunal. If it is approved, that settles the matter — instantly.

Of course, the court does not have to approve your request. Your reason for a change might be found unacceptable. Thus, you cannot change your name for such skulduggery as dodging creditors or cashing in unfairly on someone else's good will. Doubtless you would have trouble changing your name to "Woolworth" for the purpose of opening a variety store, or to "Charlie Chaplin" for a fling at comedy.

Frown On Changes

Too, judges sometimes frown on changes that are notably off-beat. One judge balked at changing a man's name to "Jesus Christ II" ("I don't believe it would be within my discretion"), and another judge said no to a girl's request for "Baby Doll" ("How would it look on a driver's license?")

But as a rule the judge will say yes, leaving it primarily up to the individual to decide what name he shall carry. In one case, a man wanted to Americanize his Italian name. His relatives, proud of their family background, showed up in court to object. But the court granted the change anyhow, with this comment:

"The law does not require a man to retain and to perpetuate the surname of his ancestors."

5-Day Weather To Be Warmer

Five day forecasts for Thursday, July 23, through Monday, July 27 :

Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and southeastern New York—Temperatures are expected to average two to five degrees above normal along the coast and eastern end portions and more than five degrees above normal in western sections. Little day to day change. Becoming a little cooler at the end of the period. Some normal high and low temperatures are Atlantic City 80 and 69. Philadelphia 86 and 66, Wilkes-Barre-Scranton 81 and 63, New York City 86 and 69. Precipitation may total up to two-tenths of an inch over southern New Jersey, occurring as widely scattered showers and thundershowers in south portions about Thursday and Friday and over the entire region about Sunday.

Middle Atlantic States—Temperatures will average near or a little above normal. Some normal high and lows are Washington 87 and 70, Wilmington 86 and 66. Little day to day temperature change. Scattered thundershowers through most of the period will average one to one-and-a-half inches.

Turkey Gifts Not In Contract

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal judge ruled Tuesday that the turkey - for - Christmas practice at a nearby manufacturing plant is not part of the written labor-management contract, and therefore not arbitratable.

Holiday turkeys had been regularly distributed to some 5,000 workers at the Boeing Co.'s Vertol Division in nearby Morton from 1954 through 1962.

Last year the company decided to eliminate the Christmas turkeys, claiming costs were getting out of hand.

The international union, United Automobile, Aerospace and Agricultural Implement Workers of America, Local 1069, contended the turkey-for-Christmas custom was an unwritten part of the labor-management agreement at the plant and demanded the point be arbitrated.

The company went into U.S. District Court seeking a declaratory judgment that the Christmas turkey custom was just that, a custom, and not an obligation. Judge Allan K. Grim agreed with the company.

Cherry Lane Production Termed Excellent

By Charles McNett
Daily Record Reporter

TANNERSVILLE—It's a moot question whether the audience or the cast have a better time at the Cherry Lane Playhouse production of Lerner and Loewe's "My Fair Lady."

The professional musical comedy company's summer stock version of the long-run Broadway hit is one of the best summer stock shows this reviewer has ever seen.

Stars Barbara Cole and Sam Carter lead the augmented resident company through the hilarity and music with a verve and snap that sweep the viewer along with them.

Miss Cole, as Eliza Doolittle, the Cockney guttersnipe, turns in her best performance in an already high quality year. Highly polished, she seems headed for stardom. "Wouldn't It Be Lovely," "Just You Wait," "The Rain In Spain," "I Could Have Danced All Night," all receive a uniformly sensitive interpretation from Miss Cole.

Carter, as 'Enry 'Iggins, the egotistical linquist who saves Eliza from life as a Covent Garden violet peddler, is especially effective in "I've Grown Accustomed to Her Face."

Walter Miller, as the besotted father of Eliza, has the role to which he has been looking forward all summ3r. "Dutch," as he is called, really throws himself into his performance, which is climaxed by "Get Me To the Church On Time."

Much credit for the quality of the performance must go to Herb Surface, who directed the current production. He has had seven years experience with the Broadway production as the understudy to the original Col. Pickering, the role he recreates at Cherry Lane.

Used 16 Scenes

Surface uses 16 scenes and a reported 87 light cues in what is for Cherry Lane's postage stamp stage, a mammoth production. It adds greatly to the show's quality. How he avoids horrendous traffic jams during the blacked - out scene changes is beyond comprehension, seeming armies troop about in the dark.

Credit must also go to Ron Forella, who did choreography and musical staging for the show, and sings, acts, and dances throughout.

The "Ascot Gavotte" is a perfect caricature of upper-class English society. Forella pictures them as Dresden figures ringing the empty hours on a mammoth clock face, so deadpan and mechanically grotesque are the dancers.

In contrast, the Cockney dance scenes are done with wild abandon. James Cook seems to have the time of his life as he joins imports David Waner and Ted Bloecher in backing up the dancing of Forella and Charmain Burn.

Both Toured With "Lady"

Waner and Bloecher have both toured with "My Fair Lady" in the National Company version, while Miss Burn, a skilled dancer, appeared in the last six months of the Broadway production.

Musical director Joan Dorneman, accompanied by pianist Eva Hess, provide a solid musical background for a show that local theatergoers, whether they've seen "My Fair Lady" or not, will not want to miss.

Production runs through Saturday, August 1. The theater is dark on Sundays.

Humane Units To Discuss Border Calls

HONESDALE — Wayne County Humane Society will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Honesdale City Hall, according to Ludwig R. Harvatin, society president.

Harvatin said a committee was selected to attend a meeting of the Humane Society of Lackawanna County at Scranton to discuss the problem of Lackawanna receiving Southern and Western Wayne County calls for animal welfare service.

"It is clearly an imposition for this county (Wayne) to expect animal - welfare service from the already over-worked facilities of the Lackawanna Society," Harvatin said.

Wayne has the Olga Dessin S.P.C.A. as well as the Humane Society, he reported.

To Send Contribution

The Wayne Humane Society will send a contribution to the Lackawanna group in appreciation of their assistance, Harvatin reported. He is also seeking to have the Wayne County Commissioners give a yearly financial grant to Lackawanna's animal welfare society.

Wayne communities most frequently requesting assistance from Lackawanna are Waymart, Gouldsboro, South Canaan and Lake Ariel, he said.

Wind Gap Fire Bylaws Revised

WIND GAP — The Wind Gap Fire Co. this week announced that revised editions of the by-laws are now available to members who have not received copies.

Ira Clemens said that only half of the fire company members have received the revised edition. Members are urged to contact Clemens for their copy.

The fire company also termed the annual picnic a success.

Oscar Kibler, fire chief, reported there were no fires for the month. Paul Weaver, ambulance committeeman, reported there were 56 new members bringing the total membership to 1,677. There were 19 runs for the month totaling 3,363 runs to date.

Warren Itterly and John L. Heelzel were accepted as social members.

Contribution Received

A contribution was received towards the new fire truck fund from the former Rebekah Lodge of Wind Gap. A letter of thanks will be sent Miss Bertha Wagner, committee woman.

A new member investigating committee composed of Oscar Kibler, Ira Clemens and Paul Shoemaker was named.

The social commitee for the Aug. 17 meeting will be Tom Brown, Richard Bittenbender and Americo Bontempo.

Defoliation Hits State Forest Lands

HARRISBURG — Secretary of Forests and Waters Maurice K. Goddard reported that severe forest insect defoliations occurred this spring over 900,000 acres of timber in counties of North - Central Pennsylvania. Approximately half of the affected area is state forest land. The most spectacular damage occurred in Potter and McKean counties and was caused by the fall cankerworm (Alsophila pometaria).

Goddard stated the damage is particularly noticeable east and north of Denton Hill, around Lyman Run, Germania and Cherry Springs in Potter County, and in Northeastern McKean County and below Smethport. The stripped trees include areas of large-scale fire damage. Foresters cannot recall a time when the measuring worms or inchworms have been so numerous over such wide an area.

High value timber resources consisting of black cherry, sugar maple, beech and ash are threatened in addition to the recreational values involved.

James O. Nichols, the department's forest entomologist, observed that the cankerworms started their foliage feeding activities in mid - June, and have now spun cocoons in the ground litter. Adult moths will emerge in the fall to lay their overwintering eggs.

A repeat defoliation can be expected again next spring before the epidemic begins to subside. Unless action is taken to control these worms next year, substantial mortality of trees is very likely to result. The one defoliation this year will not permanently damage the timber, but one or two more would cause mortality.

Pen Argyl Exchange Club Unique Group

PEN ARGYL — The Pen Argyl Exchange Club is a unique organization. It is the only Exchange Club to operate an office in Pennsylvania. It also has the largest membership in the state.

George Gary, club president, said the office had been a tailor shop and was remodeled by the club. It houses club records and is used for Board of Control meetings.

The Board of Control is the governing body of an Exchange Club and has six members elected for two year periods.

The Exchange Club is a national service organization. The Pen Argyl club has been active in community service since it was chartered in 1941.

Sponsors Scholarships

Presently the club is sponsoring a scholarship program. It awards a $1,500 grant each year to a deserving student from Plus X or Pen Argyl High Schools. It also sponsors a nursing scholarship of $100 per year.

Another of the club's projects is supplying hospital equipment to area people in need of such equipment. So far the club has loaned out hospital beds, wheel chairs, oxygen tanks and crutches among other items. The equipment is loaned out on a six month basis but anyone needing any time for a longer period only need ask. The service is open to all area residents, not just club members.

Many Projects

The club also gives a Golden Deeds Award to an area citizen who has been active in community service; sponsors the opening day celebration at Weona Park; sponsors a Christmas party with toys and candy for area children; and sponsors programs in traffic safety, civil defense, crime prevention and fire prevention.

The club honors a local boy each month with a banquet where he is given a Boy-of-the-Month certificate for outstanding qualities of leadership and citizenship.

Pennsylvania Week

Another annual event sponsored by the club is Pennsylvania week, observed either the second or third week of October. Club members, accompanied by a state police officer, "capture" an out of state couple. The couple then becomes the guests of the Exchange Club for a weekend. They are feted at a banquet and given gifts made of area products.

One project of the club is to dedicate "freedom shrines" in area high schools. A "freedom shrine" is a large laminated plaque containing exact copies of 28 historial American documents.

In April the club was a co-sponsor with the Plainfield Township Farmers Assn. of a farmer's night program with a square dance and banquet.

This year the club hopes to hold a Halloween parade in Pen Argyl and would like to have a circus on hand for next year's opening of Weona Park.

The Pen Argyl Club was honored this year by having one of its members Roy Ealey, chosen Mr. Exchangite of Pennsylvania.

Club officers include Gary; Daniel Rugglero, vice president, Karl Buchholz, treasurer; Hervert Knapp, secretary; and Alfred Dally, immediate past president.

The Board of Control is made up of Michael Figner, Domenic Ruggiero, Copeland Hughes, Theodore Albanese, Anthony Cascario, and Wilson Kneebone.

The club's area includes not only Pen Argyl but Wind Gap and parts of Plainfield Township as well.

Woman Surgeon Stabbed 8 Times

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A woman surgeon, a leader in cancer research, was slain Tuesday by a killer who stabbed her eight times and then set her afire.

The body of Dr. Mary Stults Sherman, a 51-year-old widow who lived alone, was found in her bedroom by firemen. They were called by a neighbor who smelled smoke.

The victim was widely known in medical circles for her work in the field of bone pathology, primarily the study of tumors, both benign and malignant, of the bones and joints.

Cy Barrett Says

Palmer's Putting Courses

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY:

I am a member of "Arnie's Army" and guess you know what that means. Wanting to get into my own business, an Arnold Palmer putting course holds more than casual interest for me. Since Arnold Palmer is the biggest professional golf money winner in history, maybe some profit will rub off on me. What can you tell me about Arnold Palmer's putting courses?

BUCK PRIVATE

DEAR BUCK:

With the company's president on pro tour, Arnold Palmer Putting Courses and Driving Range companies are managed by Frank Abramoff and Mark McCormack. McCormack, you will recall, is a lawyer and Palmer's long time friend and financial genius.

This offshoot of the Arnold Palmer empire is now in its second year and 51 nineteen-hole putting courses are in operation. Cost of a Palmer putting course varies according to specifications, but a 19-hole unit can be brought in for around $20,000 exclusive of real estate and a shelter.

The 35-tee double tier driving range is a new Palmer innovation but seems potentially more profitable for Arnie's far flung associates, many who became interested in the same way you did. Cost for this unit is in the neighborhood of $34,500.

Again, exclusive of real estate and a sales room. Double deckers have been going well in Japan where the golf craze struck and stuck. According to the National Golf foundation, a driving range with 25 to 30 tees can expect to gross $20,000 per year. An estimated 40 per cent is profit. Arnie's general staff expects his driving units will produce 25 per cent above that.

To investigate further, write Arnold Palmer Putting Course and Driving Range Companies, 239 N. Missouri Avenue, Alantic City, New Jersey. If you want a free list of similar golf operations, drop me a line and enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope. PS. That goes for other readers, too.

CY

DEAR CY:

It is four years since my husband died and I can tell about the gift. He was a well known civic figure, who donated much of his valuable time to charity and public service. Six months before he died, local citizens decided to honor him and gave him a motor car.

This was supposed to be the highest honor which could be bestowed on a public spirited citizen, and we were tremendously proud of the gift. Four years later, the car is looking tired and will eventually be traded in for another.

Our grandchildren will have nothing permanent to remind them of their family heritage. By worshipping the motor car, we worship a false set of values.

MRS. Z.

DEAR MRS. Z.:

The automobile is a prime mover in our economy and provides work for thousands and thousands of men and women. It has given our nation unequalled mobility for the individual, which has contributed greatly to our out-distancing other countries.

More permanent gifts than an automobile may be superior, but let's understand our countrymen. As a nation we are quick to forget traditions and past honors and focus on the present.

For example: Following President Kennedy's tragic death in the headlong rush toward commemoration, hundreds of public institutions were renamed and even Benjamin Franklin, the symbol of thrift, lost his place on the half dollar.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Thursday, July 23, 1964

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — This day needs enthusiasm, but that won't stand up alone without knowledge of your area and subject matter. Reckon with others' skill, experience. Competition may be strong.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — If past endeavors were completed without sufficient know-how, you may feel effects now. Go forth with the will to amend where required; you can do a better job than you think.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury's auspicious aspect stimulates ingenuity, quick-wittedness, perception. But these dandy assets, not carefully applied, can cause mixups, so ON YOUR TOES.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Pull in the reins enough to let all know you have the situation in control, then you can proceed with surety. And KEEP ON proceeding: rewards in due time.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Tangible gains indicated if you pursue work and handle obligations conscientiously. Don't neglect the substantial for "flashy" but momentary gain. Aim for comprehensiveness.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Steady, wise continuance of any worthwhile endeavor will soon bring compensation. Not an unusual day in any respect, but much good work can be done.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A day which calls for your sturdy thinking and calm demeanor. Though some quirks and obstacles are indicated, it is no horns-of-a-dilemma day. Hope, cheer and good sense go into the "recipe."

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — It will not be entirely easy to cope with everybody and everything, but your fine intelligence, ably applied, can keep matters balanced, moving forward. You may have an unusual offer.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Use persuasion if you must — but honestly, taking everyone's rights into consideration — or you will not be happy at results. DON'T spend for luxuries if it will flatten the wallet.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Work out business deals with deliberation, ascertaining facts beforehand. Don't let anything get you down. This is a time for advancing and seeking brighter horizons.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Decide how much you can and should accomplish, call a halt to anything (or someone) that would run down energies, crowd you into not achieving well in any area.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Well-out much planning and your own incentive and faith will have to push you into the success column. Don't lag in making new plans or dusting up an old standby for a better showing.

YOU BORN TODAY Once your goals are set, don't vary from them. Pair your talents with the right amount of grit and you can reach the highest heights, make your mark in life. Being selfish is some time-honored trait. You can be a great lover for good, a wonderful friend, a stalwart ally, who knows the world for his friend. You would make a skilled doctor, healer, lawyer, author, clergyman, florist, or executive. Famous: Eng. poet, author Lord Byron; Cardinal Gibbons.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Cuba Invites U.S. Newsmen To 26th of July Celebration

By Richard Spong
Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — Premier Fidel Castro Ruz of Cuba has invited representatives of 25 U.S. news organizations to cover the 11th anniversary of the founding of his revolutionary movement on July 26.

The 26th of July celebration in Cuba has a kind of built-in eccentricity. The event being celebrated is a rash attack on the Moncado barracks in Santiago de Cuba 11 years ago.

A manifesto that was to have been read over the Santiago radio ended with a salute to the "name of the Cuban martyrs," the name of the sacred rights of the Fatherland, and the honor of the "Centenary."

The Centenary was of the birth of Jose Marti, the great Cuban writer and revolutionary, but the timing was off. Marti was born on Jan. 28, 1853.

About 100 soldiers and students lost their lives in the incredible raid of 11 years ago. The raid was irrational and suicidal.

Its announced purpose was to seize arms and perhaps set off a revolution. But it had not the slightest chance of bringing down the regime even if the barracks had been taken.

The Castro brothers, Fidel and Raul, who led the raid, escaped into the hills, but they were eventually captured.

Although the Moncado attack was followed by a Batista blood bath that struck not only at the students but at blameless civilians, Fidel Castro was sentenced only to 15 years in prison. The brothers later were amnestied and released to go to Mexico.

The further irony is that the manifesto of 1953 had been dedicated — with "absolute and reverent respect" — to the Cuban Constitution of 1940.

The reverence and respect were early victims of the revolution, along with the 26th of July Movement, as the Castro revolution began eating its young.

The Constitution of 1940 called, of course, for free elections. After his victory on Jan. 1, 1959 Castro for a time promised these. But the promise proved as false as the constitutional one; it was repudiated long ago.

In his five and a half years in power Castro has proved a constant source of annoyance. He introduced the cold war and communism into the Western Hemisphere, along with the weapons of a hot war.

He has exported his revolution to the continent of South America, notably Venezuela and Argentina. He has almost caused a nuclear war.

Now he is making arrogant overtures for peace.

His economic ills are being ministered to with the assistance of West Germany and Japan as well as his Communist supporters.

Soviet bloc aid has been pouring into Cuba at the rate of $2.6 million a day for the past several years, about $1 million a day of this from the Soviet Union.

Kipps Men Bore Famous Names

EAST STROUDSBURG — A 77 - year - old niece of George Washington Kipp, whose political and financial escapades were recalled recently in The Daily Record, remembers that the men in Kipp's family bore names such as Benjamin Franklin, Isaac Newton, Horace Greeley and John Adams.

Mrs. Hanna Correll Kipp Brewer of 201 S. Crystal St., East Stroudsburg, who was named after Congressman Kipp's mother, said Kipp's forebearers were the first settlers in Greene Township in Pike County.

Twice Elected

Democrat Kipp was twice elected to Congress from a staunchly Republican district surrounding Towanda in Bradford County, where Kipp moved to pursue his lumber business.

Mrs. Brewer, who lives alone in a house located in the S. Countland St. urban renewal project, said Kipp had "more than 50 relatives at the time of his death in 1911.

She said Kipp died of a heart attack while in British Columbia to estimate the worth of lumber in that area for the U. S. government.

His niece recalled that her father, Benjamin Franklin, told her Kipp's body was carried by Indian guides to the port city of Vancouver, taken by boat to Seattle and then put on a train for the journey to Towanda.

Mrs. Brewer said at the time of his death, Kipp was worth more than $2 million and he willed a million to each of two daughters, plus giving $10,000 for the education of five grandchildren.

"Turned Out Good"

She said, "Everything Uncle George touched turned out good and most everything my father, who was also in the lumber business, looked at burned down or was washed away by a flood."

Mrs. Brewer said Mrs. Myrtle Banks of S. Green St., East Stroudsburg, is also a niece of Kepp's.

Kipp grew up in a family of seven boys and five girls.

Mrs. Brewer said A. Mitchell Palmer of Stroudsburg, who served as U. S. attorney general, was a close friend of Kipp's and served as an honorary pallbearer at his funeral.

Yanks Erupt For 5 Runs To Top Nats

NEW YORK (AP)—Held hitless through four innings, the New York Yankees erupted for five runs in the fifth inning, knocked young right-hander Alan Koch out of the box and went on to defeat the Washington Senators 6-3 Wednesday.

The victory, second straight over the last place Senators, assured the Yankees of retaining their percentage point hold on first place.

A bases-loaded triple by Joe Pepitone was the key blow. It came off Jim Hannan, who had replaced Koch, after a two-run double by Mickey Mantle and a walk to Roger Maris. Hannan filled the bases with a pass to Tommy Tresh and Pepitone unloaded them with a smash against the bleacher wall in right center. The Yankees had only four hits, all in the fifth inning.

Al Downing was credited with the victory, but he needed the help of Ralph Terry to assure his seventh victory against two defeats. Terry took over in the sixth after Downing had been taken out for a pinch hitter.

S-burg, Eastburg Win Playoff Games

PEN ARGYL — Twin borough Little League clubs swept to playoff victories yesterday in the opening round of the District 20 playoffs.

Stroudsburg whipped Pen Argyl's Green and White team, 7-3, at Pen Argyl while East Stroudsburg booted Pocono Mountains, 10-2.

The borough clubs move up in the playoffs. Today, the Bangor, which drew a bye in the opening round, plays Stroudsburg in a broadcast game over WVPO from Pen Argyl. Air time is 5:50 p.m.

The winners of today's games will play tomorrow in Stroudsburg, also to be aired over WVPO.

In the Stroudsburg — Green and White contest, Bob Stettler started things off with a hit in the bottom of the first. Dale Marsh then whiffed, but Bob Baylor got a hit. There was a passed ball to advance the runners.

Bill Donaldson slapped a grounder to the shortstop, who fired too late to home. Stettler scored. Wayne Jaggers looped a fly to right, scoring Baylor, and a third - baseman's error allowed another run to score.

Stroudsburg thus grabbed a three - run advantage in the first, and pecked out one in the second, one in the third, and two in the fourth to complete its half of the scoring.

Pen Argyl scored two in the third. There was a base on balls, a fielder's choice which allowed another runner to reach first, Tim Peters bounced to the pitcher for a force-out at home, the bases were then loaded and two walks forced in two runs.

There were no extra base hits in the game.

Baylor took the win for Stroudsburg. Tod Smith started the game, and took the loss. Carl Zegalia (his record pitched over a couple of years) came on in the fifth and held the Stroudsburg team hitless the rest of the way. Stroudsburg committed one error; Pen Argyl had five.

Eastburg — Pocono Mountains

In a game played in East Stroudsburg, the home team got only three hits but came up with 10 runs to win the game.

Steve Miller, the Eastburg third baseman, got the only extra base hit among the four clubs yesterday, slapping out a double.

The big inning for East Stroudsburg was the fourth. It exploded for six runs and added two more in the fifth.

Pocono Mountains pecked out lone tallies in the third and fourth.

Dick Spinner was the winner for Eastburg; Paul Katchmer took the loss.

Besides Katchmer, Richard Nichols and Dale Knecht pitched for Pocono Mountains. Katchmer also hit two players: Mike VanWhy and George Miller.

No one had more than one hit for either club. Katchmer struck out eight and walked six; Spinner fanned nine and walked five on his way to the win.

Phils Top Braves On Wine HR, 4-1

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Light-hitting Bobby Wine slammed his second homer in two nights, a bases-empty shot off Warren Spahn in the seventh inning, snapping a 1-1 tie and triggering National League-leading Philadelphia to a 4-1 victory over Milwaukee Wednesday night.

The victory kept the Phillies one game ahead of second-place San Francisco.

Wine's homer, only his fourth of the season, also was his second game-winning hit against the Braves. Tuesday night, after hitting his homer, he singled home the decisive run in the eighth inning.

While Wine took care of the hitting, Jack Baldschun took care of the relief pitching for the second night in a row, preserving Ray Culp's eighth victory against five losses.

Spahn lost his 11th against only six victories and failed to finish for the 11th time in his last 12 starts. He was tagged for 10 hits in his eight-inning stint.

The 43-year-old left-hander supplied the Braves only run with a homer in the third inning. It was his first of the year and the 35th of his career.

MAIL CALL

Dear Sir,

During the past week I had the occasion on two different days to make the round trip (about 300 miles each day) to Sayre, Pa., with the Monroe County Babe Ruth League All-Star team. To enlighten the uninformed, this consisted of 19 boys (16 team members and three others) in the 14-15 year age group.

Today one reads so much about the high rate of juvenile delinquency in this age group. Well, I would like to "toot the horn" for this particular group of boys.

Their conduct was above reproach and I feel the public should hear more about this side of the teen-ager. Their behavior while we traveled, or at the places we stopped to eat, was such that their parents should be proud of them.

They respected the discipline their managers represented and acted accordingly. These men should also receive their share of praise for what they are doing for these boys.

Although the team came home on the losing side of the score, they exhibited good sportsmanship all the way down the line. They are certainly learning to fight hard and take a loss as graciously as a win.

And what better preparation could these boys be getting for their approaching manhood and the problems of adult life? In their own small way, they have brought the town of Stroudsburg a little more publicity—good publicity—and I think the community should be made aware of this contribution by a group of teen-agers.

I, for one, am thankful that my son has chosen to send his spare time in such a rewarding activity as sports. A busy teen-ager has little time to get into trouble and these boys are proving it.

Mrs. William B. Barton,
East Stroudsburg.

Dear Mrs. Barton,

Your letter expresses the views of many adults—both parents and non-parents.

As a newspaper reporter, I have served as both on general assignment (covering the police beats, fires, accidents and the courts) and also on sports.

As a sports reporter, I have seen youngsters get mad, sometimes lose their tempers, but never pull a knife on another or beat him with a chain or a pair of brass knuckles.

This is the type of kid you do not find in the sports arenas.

The kids you find in the sports arenas are my type of youngsters. Most of them are tough, plenty tough. Most of them are clean. And most of them are gentlemen.

I'm happy for you that your son is one of them.

RANDOM NOTES . . . Glenn Bishing, Stroud Union's sensational shortstop who is headed for Rider College in New Jersey, has been selected to play in the sectional American Legion All-Star game Sunday at Coplay. Glenn, a representative of Lehigh Valley Legion stars, is a good bet to be selected for another game at Connie Mack Stadium.

Last year, Glenn participated in a similar event at Yankee Stadium. In that contest, he belted one ball for a double to deep left which fell about 15 feet short of sailing into the lower deck for a home run.

Bishing had the pro scouts following him last year at Stroud Union. They'll also be keeping a keen eye at him on Rider, too.

Tommy LaBar finished the Pocono Mountain Little League season for Marvin's TV with a nifty .541 average, getting 26 hits in 48 appearances. He also tallied 28 RBIs, scored 23 runs and was issued 15 walks. He struck out only eight times.

Other top averages were Rich Murray .392, Kerry Smith .321 and Ron Murray .300.

The Pain Lingers

Ford's Arm Worries Yogi

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra should have felt elated. His New York Yankees had raked in all the chips. A victory together with doubleheader losses by both Baltimore and Chicago had boosted them back into first place Tuesday night.

But the stumpy skipper was unusually somber.

Worried

"I'm a little worried," he admitted. "It's Whitey. His side hurts. He don't know if he can pitch Thursday."

Whitey, of course, is Whitey Ford, the superb 35-year-old southpaw whose 12-3 record is among the best in the league.

Ford, pitching against Cleveland last Sunday, was forced to leave the mound when he found he could not throw his breaking stuff without bringing on pain.

It didn't cause any alarm then because the same thing had happened on a number of occasions before. A few days rest and he would be all right again in time for his next start.

This time the pain has lingered longer than usual. It was still there Wednesday, some 24 hours before Ford was due to face the Washington Senators.

"I feel it," Whitey confessed. "It's still there. It's taking a little longer to go away this time."

Berra was not at all sure he would risk pitching Ford with his normal three-day rest. He named Stan Williams as an alternate.

If OK, Pitch

"It depends upon Whitey," Yogi said. "If he tells me he's all right, he pitches Thursday. If not, I'll give him an extra day's rest, maybe two.

"I can't afford to gamble with a guy who's won 12 games for us. He's too valuable."

Ford has been hounded by the injury on and off since spring training. It's been diagnosed as a muscle spasm in the lower region. Ford says it doesn't hurt when he throws straight away but the pain shoots up his back when he tries breaking stuff.

Giants Whip Cubs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rookie Hal Lanier and Orlando Cepeda hammered wrong field homers in nearly the same spot to drive in five San Francisco runs as the Giants snapped a four-game Chicago winning streak in beating the Cubs 7-3 Wednesday.

Utah's Teachers Slated To Resume Negotiations

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Utah's 10,000 public school teachers have voted to resume contract negotiations, virtually assuring that the state's schools will open on schedule this fall.

But sanctions imposed on Utah by the National Education Association will remain in effect. And the teachers have pledged to work toward electing state officials sympathetic to their cause.

They want better salaries, more teachers and counselors and better teaching equipment.

Gov. George D. Clyde refused to call a special session of the legislature to appropriate more money a year ago. The teachers voted, through the Utah Education Association—UEA — which represents most of them, to refuse to sign contracts for the school year.

The governor then appointed a study committee which recommended last spring that he call a special session for this purpose. He refused.

The teachers called a two-day recess—some called it a strike.

They then voted to continue boycotting contract negotiations. The NEA sanctions asked all NEA members to refuse to teach in Utah.

Clyde decided not to run for re-election. Some of the other gubernatorial candidates have expressed sympathy for the teachers.

The teachers were active at the state political party conventions.

"We're optimistic," John Evans Jr., executive secretary of the UEA said Wednesday, "on our chances of electing leaders who will likewise have the welfare of our school children in mind."

Is the UEA backing down? Evans has admitted it is.

But he says it's an honorable retreat and a necessary one, because more money for education—the core of the teachers' demands—can be obtained only through legislative action. And there's no possibility of the legislature's meeting before 1965.

Thus the UEA hopes, while sending the teachers back to work, to bring about before the next legislature convenes a political atmosphere more favorable to its demands.

This course appears to have the backing of the UEA rank and file, who voted overwhelmingly Tuesday night to resume contract negotiations.

Ghana Chief Urges Unity

CAIRO (AP)—President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana told fellow African leaders Sunday they lack the courage to unite their continent and accused them of shirking their duty to support African freedom fighters.

"We are potentially the world's richest continent, not only in minerals but in hydroelectric power," Nkruman said. "But courage to unite a divided continent is lacking. Independence is not enough without unity in Africa."

Those leaders who replied to Nkrumah at the second African summit conference of the Organization of African Unity indicated belief that the time for union is not ripe.

Barry Threats

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Two threats against the life of Sen. Barry Goldwater, Republican presidential nominee, were reported in Dallas Tuesday.

HIGHER EDUCATION..... VIA A NEWSPAPER ROUTE

Why do educators frequently encourage youngsters to apply for a newspaper route? And why are more and more schools giving "credit" for newspaper route experience?

Because the attitude of a boy towards higher education frequently changes, when, as a Little Merchant newspaperboy, in business for himself, he begins to understand the value of book learning combined with practical experience.

He buys at wholesale—sells at retail—makes his own deliveries and collections—learns simple bookkeeping—and often develops into a surprisingly good salesman.

And the money he banks while a newspaperboy frequently makes it possible for him to attend the college of his choice.

If you think your son or some other youngster might profit from newspaperboy experience, have him come in and talk to us.

Remember this $3995 car with the $10,000 features?
We've even improved it
This is the Volvo P-1800. Road & Track magazine describes it this way: "The P-1800 is a very civilized touring car for people who want to travel rapidly in style, a Gran Turismo car much in the news these days—but at a price that many people who cannot afford a Ferrari or Aston Martin would be able to pay." We've improved it replacing vinyl with leather at wearable interior points, changed the finish from lacquer to enamel (rust-proofing prime, and 9 coats of enamel oven baked and hand rubbed), increased its power with the same type engine. And now we call it the Volvo P-1800-S. But it still cost only $3995 P.O.E. Small price when you consider it comes all the way from Sweden.

Chamber Board Approves $9,925 Operating Budget

STROUDSBURG — The Board of Directors of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce approved a 1964 operating budget of $9,925 at a meeting in the Penn-Stroud Hotel Monday, R. M. Hoot, executive secretary, reported.

Income from membership dues is expected to reach $13,500, according to the budget figures. The chamber has also applied to the state Department of Commerce for a meeting fund grant of $1,978.

Joseph Lisicky reported that the Chamber's legislative committee had been highly active, and that attendance was "heartening." He said there will be a lull in committee work during the summer, although special meetings might be called.

"Regular meetings will resume in the fall with, we hope, a more active and participating committee," Lisicky concluded.

The planning and zoning committee report stressed the desirability of close cooperation with planners in Pike and Wayne Counties, and adjacent New Jersey. The committee will also "press for constant and consistent action by all organizations for betterment of the area."

Close cooperation between the Chamber and local retailers was advocated by J. L. Cohen, president of the business organization, as the most efficient means of promoting local business.

Hoot reported that he had received a request for information on the Pocono area from the Sterling Net and Twine Co., Inc., of Belleville, N. J.

The Chamber also heard reports that the Redmond Finishing Co. of East Stroudsburg is negotiating to expand its plant. Employment would be increased by 30 persons if expansion is undertaken.

Pocono Machine and Tool Co. is the latest local industry to join the Chamber, Hoot said.

17 Benefit Via Care For Under 65

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's newly instituted Purchase-Of-Hospital-Care program for indigents under 65 years of age resulted in $1833 being paid out for 17 Monroe County beneficiaries during the month of May, a check with the State Department of Public Welfare shows.

Records also show that 21 applications for PHC hospital aid were received from Monroe countians in addition to 23 pending at the beginning of May—of which 29 were approved and five denied, with ten pending the beginning of June.

Under the new PHC program (replacing the old $10-a-day state-aid award to hospitals for free patient care of indigents) the Public Welfare Department now pays hospitals on a descend scale from a $25 maximum base, starting at 80 per cent for the first ten days of hospitalization, 50 per cent for the next ten days and 40 per cent for the final ten days of a 30-day period.

Beneficiaries must be without hospital insurance, without close relatives able to help, without certain income or assets, and with an income of not more than $1500 a year ($2400 for man and wife).

Keating Attacks Army Golf Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said Monday the Army is using drafted men to maintain an officers' golf course.

Keating said he had been told by a serviceman whom he did not identify that after he had been drafted and trained as a radio operator he was assigned to a golf driving range.

"For 13 hours a day," Keating said, "he drives around on a small tractor picking up about 3,000 golf balls a week. A whole squad is employed in keeping this officers' golf course and driving range in shape."

Slate Belt Drive For Scouts Set

PEN ARGYL — General solicitation for $6,030 by Boy Scout workers in the Blue Mountain District will begin Aug. 3.

The week-long house-to-house drive will cover the Slate Belt, Portland and Nazareth areas. Charles Whitlow of Mount Pocono is president of the area scout council, and Renald Baratta of Martins Creek is finance chairman.

Campaign plans were discussed at a meeting of the executive committee Monday night at the Albion House in Pen Argyl. It was announced that the committee has collected $2,800 of a $3,515 goal in special gifts.

Besides Whitlow and Baratta, other executive committee members are Irving Lehrer of Bangor, RD 2, scout commissioner; Elmer Morgan, Delaware Valley scout committee; Anthony Capazola of Roseto; Joseph Beers of Richmond; Roy Fehnel of Nazareth, and John Daily of Pen Argyl.

Area chairmen for the general solicitation include Henry Williams of Mount Bethel-Portland; John and Gemma Turtzo of Pen Argyl; Dominick Caracio of Roseto; James Custer and James Pontrelli of Wind Gap; Joseph Reichl of Nazareth; Phillip Ruggerio of Bangor and Ernest Nepa of Martins Creek.

Misses One Car, Hits Another

BUSHKILL — A total of $650 damage was caused in a two-car mishap on Rt. 209 11 miles west of Stroudsburg near the Fernwood Stables at 3:25 p.m. yesterday.

According to Stroudsburg State Police, a car driven by Charles Kennedy, 17, of Delray Beach, Fla., was traveling north on Rt. 209 and collided with the parked and unattended vehicle of George Fenical, 39, of East Stroudsburg, RD 1.

Kennedy told police a car pulled out in front of him and he swerved to the left to avoid a collision. He lost control of the car, swerved across the highway, came back and struck the parked car.

There were no injuries reported. Investigation is being continued.

Wind Gap Car Found In Easton

WIND GAP—The car of Harvey Ruch, of Wind Gap, RD, was found abandoned in West Easton Monday afternoon.

Trooper George Yurkanin of Easton State Police, recovered Ruch's car which was stolen July 17 in Pen Argyl.

Station Wagons In Rt. 29 Mishap

LEHIGHTON — A total of $400 damage was caused by a rear-end crash of two station wagons on Rt. 29 two tenths of a mile east of Lehighton yesterday at 1:05 p.m.

Frederick Geyer, 68, of Mount Joy, Pa., was attempting a right turn off Rt. 209 onto Rt. 29 when his car was struck in the rear by a station wagon, driven by John Vaughn, 45, of Lehighton, RD 3. Both vehicles were traveling in the same direction at the time of the crash.

There were no injuries reported.

Three Area Firms Awarded Pen Argyl Contracts

PEN AGRYL — Three area businesses were awarded contracts at a special meeting this week of the Interim Operating Committee of the Pen Argyl Area School District.

Lim's Sport Shop of Stroudsburg was awarded two contracts. The first was for physical education supplies, $406.40. The other was for shop and medical supplies, $16.51.

The contracts among $16,407.91 awarded included $15,732.39 for supplies and $657.52 for capital outlay. Bids were also received for additional items of capital outlay on contracts to be awarded at the next regular meeting of the committee Monday night.

Reds Warn Of Retaliation

TOKYO (AP)—The Reds issued new threats of powerful retaliation against any U.S.-backed strike against Communist North Viet Nam.

Red China warned that it will not sit idly by on South Viet Nam and Indochina affairs. This was followed by broadcast of a threat of crushing retaliation by North Viet Nam's defense minister.
